TWO PLANES TAKE AIR FOR ATLANTIC HOPS TODAY

CONDITIONS ARE BETTER IN DIXON THAN MANY TOWNS

Its Factories Operate On Strong Basis Wi.h Better Prospects

A canvas of employment conditions in Dixon has developed the fact that this city is far ahead of many others of like size throughout the country. Conditions locally are not alarming but on the other hand are far better than believed with even better prospects. Employment has increased in many of the industries of the city, it was learned from heads of the factories.

The William B. Johnson Shoe Company, the local plant of the Brown interests with headquarters at St. Louis, is operating better than in recent years. Mr. Johnson stated today that last week's pay roll found 521 employed in the factory. At the present time the local factory is operating on a schedule of three thousand pairs of shoes daily or a weekly average of 18,000 pairs. The orders for the new line of W. B. Johnson shoes are very encouraging to the officers of the company and the new fall style is now being shown retailers throughout the country.

Wire Plants Operating

The Reynolds Wire company plants are both operating daily, the east end wire drawing plant having started about two weeks ago.

"There is no immediate prospect of a slackening up of operations in either of the plants," stated an official of the company today, "but on the contrary the prospects for the fall and early winter are very promising."

The Medusa Cement Company plant east of the city is operating a full-time summer force of approximately 225 workmen, it was stated.

The Borden condensory and the confectionery department are operating their regular seasonal pay roll.

The American Cab & Body Company plant is operating at about 40 per cent of capacity, it was stated by an official, with a prospect of better conditions in the near future.

Generally speaking, Dixon is in a much better condition than larger cities of northern Illinois and throughout the country, the survey developed.

While it is generally known that the J. I. Case Company plant is being moved to Rockford, officials of the company stated today that not more than six families will move to that city. Numerous reports have been circulated of the removal of a large number of families to Rockford, but this was emphatically denied today with the issuance of the statement that not to exceed six families would be moved to that city between August 1 and 15.

Rumor Still Found In Stateville Cell

(BULLETIN)

Springfield, Ill., July 28 —(AP)— A still reported found in a basement at the Illinois state penitentiary was a one-gallon jug with potato peelings and some prune juice in it, Warden Henry C. Hill, informed the State Department of Public Welfare this morning.

Joliet, Ill., July 28 —(AP)— Authorities of the new Stateville prison declined today to discuss rumors that a still had been found in the basement of one of the prison's buildings.

Questioned, Warden Henry C. Hill smiled and referred to the announcement yesterday of the ban on news ordered after a conference Saturday with Col. Frank D. Whipp State Superintendent of Prisons.

"You know what the rule is." the warden said.

The rumors said prisoners had been using potato peels and other kitchen salvage for making mash. The discovery was reported to have been made during the search of the buildings undertaken by Hill after two rumored outbreaks of convicts failed to materialize last week.

Siamese King And Queen To Leave U. S.

White Plains, N. Y., July 28—(AP) —The three months visit of the King and Queen of Siam to the United States was near its end today as preparations were made at Ophir Hall for their departure this afternoon.

Much rested, and happy at the successful operation for the removal of a cataract from his eye, King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambaibarni were to motor with their entourage to Scarborough to board a special train for Quebec, Canada.

The King went for a seven hour trip on the dirigible Los Angeles yesterday, accompanied by the Queen. He termed the trip" the best time" he "ever had."

Queen Rambaibarni was the first woman ever to fly in a navy aircraft, breaking an old tradition of the service. Special permission for the flight had been obtained from Washington.

ONE APPLICANT

But one applicant appeared last week to write the regular teacher's examination at the office of County Superintendent L. W. Miller. In years past the number has run as high as 42 applicants. To changes in state laws governing teacher's certificates and the fact that prospective teachers are attending the state normal schools, is attributed to the heavy falling off in numbers writing the examinations locally.

Four Lee county high school boys will enjoy the annual state fair school at Springfield, August 22 to 28, County Superintendent of Schools L. W. Miller announced this morning. Lee county's quota called for but two memberships, but the list of applications was double that number and County Superintendent Miller was successful in securng the two additional memberships. Three of the boys, Wilbur Schick of South Dixon and Elton Williams and James H. Quick of Dixon are Dixon high scho lstudents, the fourth member of the class being Walter Kolh, of Sublette a student at the Amboy township high school. Exiled King And Son Are Reunited

London, July 28 —(AP)— Alfonso de Bourbon, former King of Spain, and his third son were reunited in exile on the Paddington station platform today. Meanwhile London seethed with stories, which Alfonso himself denied that he had abdicated his right to the Spanish throne in favor of the boy.

Don Juan, the 18-year-old prince who has been a cadet at the Dartmouth Naval School since the royal family left Spain, came up from Dartmouth this morning to meet his father, who arrived yesterday from Fontainebleau.

They embraced each other and started off with Lord Londonderry, the former King's intimate friend, who a short time previously had denied a newspaper report of the abdication.

SOUTHWEST SUFFERS IN HOT WAVE: GRASSHOPPER MENACE GROWING IN SEVERAL STATES

68 Deaths Reported In Imperial Valley And Arizona Today

By The Associated Press

The nation sweltered today from one coast to the other.

Los Angeles sweltered in the nineties; and New England, too. Great sections of the middle west simmered under persistent sun. Arizona, California and Nevada all reported deaths due to the heat, the total being 68.

Salina, Kan., had thermometer readings of 110 degrees. The Dakotas, Nebraska and Oklahoma also mopped brows excessively warm.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, reported that July's second heat wave was drifting slowly away from the Canadian prairies, leaving 19 dead. Damage to crops was estimated from 50 per cent to total loss in some places.

In New York City, after a night of discomfort, during which one death occurred, the temperature hit 92 at 1 o'clock this afternoon, with humidity fluctuating crazily. Lack of more than a breath of air stirring added to the discomfort of millions pinned by necessity to the metropolis.

There was one death in New England, but the temperatures ran so high that thousands of workers forsook their jobs, seeking relief from the oppressive heat.

Los Angeles, July 28—(AP)—Residents fled today from the heat-stricken Imperiol Valley and Arizona points as the toll from the southwest's most prolonged heat wave in years mounted to 63 deaths.

Along the roads at the base of majestic San Gorgonio mountain, which lifts its snow capped peak slightly more than two miles above the sweltering Great American desert, hundreds of automobiles moved to the cooler coastal areas and mountain resorts so their occupants might find relief.

Forty of the heat deaths occurred in Imperial Valley, which is noted for the richness of its soil and, for the greater part, lies below sea level. The population had been reduced to those who of necessity must remain in the heat-ridden area.

Snow Covers Mountain.

The exodus continued despite hope the heat wave was nearing its end. During the night torrential rains visited the mountain areas of southern California. The weather, as if by irony, left San Gorgonio Mountain covered with snow. The peak usually is barren at this time of the year.

In addition to the 40 deaths in Imperial Valley, where a 25 day average had been 108 degrees, other points reported the following deaths: Phoenix, Ariz., 14; Needles, Cal., 6; Taft, Cal., 2; and Las Vegas, Nev., 1.

Needles reported a temperature of 120 degrees Thursday and it had been but a few degrees less than that in the days following. Taft, located in the San Joaquin Valley, yesterday reported a temperature of 118 degrees.

Los Angeles, with a reputation for being a summer resort, sweltered under a 92 degree heat yesterday. The weather sent thousands to the beaches for questionable relief. The water itself showed a temperature of 47 degrees.

FOREST FIRES RAGE.

Denver, Colo., July 28—(UP)—Fires raged today through thousands of acres of virgin timber and brush lands in Montana, Idaho and California and defied efforts are several thousand men to stop them.

Two historic mining towns, Red Dog and You Bet, in California, were threatened by one huge blaze which 400 men were fighting in Grass Valley. School houses at Mariposa and Birchville and a narrow gauge railroad bridge across Bear Creek had been swept away.

What was said to be the worst fire of the season was roaring through a white pine forest near Missoula, Mont. Herds of deers, bears and other beasts fled in advance. The lives of more than 1,000 men fight-

Rush Orders For Snow Plows Keep Plant Busy-

Springfifield, Ill., July 28—(UP) —With mercury hovering near the 100 degree mark employes of a local manufacturing plant have been engaged all during the past month in crating and shipping snow plows to various parts of the country.

Thus far orders have been received for fifteen of the largest plows manufactured. The orders have come from as far west as Oregon and as far east as Pennsylvania. Indiana and Ohio also are represented with orders.

A note accompanying the order from Oregon asked the company to "Rush shipment."

Many Fields In Plains States Stripped Of Green Vegetation

Minneapolis, Minn., July 28 (AP) —Science, apparently with its back to the wall, was fighting today to stem the tide of hordes of creeping, hopping and flying grasshoppers, now playing havoc with the crops of Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and North and South Dakota.

At Des Moines, plans were being made for a meeting of entomologists and agricultural leaders to devise means of combating the hordes of insects which have moved relentlessly across the Missouri river eastward. At the same time Iowa state officials sought an appropriation of $50,000 to fight the plague.

Many Fields Bare

Meanwhile, militant farmers, all armed with poison mixtures, returned to the fight. In some Minnesota counities the situation was so bad that fields, pastures and orchards are virtually bare of green vegetation and harvestable crops.

More than 150,000 acres of crops in Kittson and Marshall counties in northwest Minnesota have been nearly erased from the harvest picture. Polk county is estimated to have suffered a 50 per cent loss in grain crops.

A. G. Ruggles, State Entomo'ogist said that unless weather conditions shift from hot and dry, destruction will continue for many weeks and extend into a far wider zone. Just now weather conditions for the big "hoppers" are ideal, he said.

Bran, molassas and poisons are combined to form the ammunition of the defense. All sorts of farm machines have been equipped hurriedly with improvised fittings to scatter the mixture in fields. Grasshoppers, tempted by the molasses, die within 24 hours after sampling the bran. Their fellows, who follow an instinct to feed upon the first unfortunates, reap their reward a little quicker.

"Where the grasshopper comes from no one knows," said A. B. Funk, Iowa Industrial Commissioner who recalled the extensive damage done by a grasshopper invasion in 1874 to 1877.

"When they had done their work of depredation, they disappeared, no one knows where or why," he said.

Iowa state officials said the loss in their state had not been as great as in Nebraska or South Dakota. In Nebraska 63 of the state's 93 counties have been infested.

Slain Co-ed Posed As Being Married

White River Apache Reservation, Arizona, July 28 —(AP)— Officers investigating the killing of Henrietta Schmerler, 23-year-old anthropology research student, said today they had learned she led acquaintances here to believe she was older and more experienced than she was.

White residents of the reservation were quoted as saying they had understood she was "more than 30 years old," had been married, had two children in the east and had dropped her married name during her research work.

Officials believed she allowed this understanding to exist so she could pursue her studies of Indian life and language without supervision. Practically every Indian Service official she met, including James M. Stewart of the Indian Land Office, had attempted to dissuade the young Columbia University student from her determination to delve unchaperoned into Apache affairs.

Dressed in an Indian dancing girls costume, her body was found in a ravine near Fort Apache last Friday. Her fatal stabbing, preceded apparently by assault, remained a mystery. Seven Apaches and a white man were questioned and released.

"Squatter" Leaves Church Home Today

Antioch, Ill., July 28 —(UP)— Charles Spiering prepared today to move his family out of the Hickory Corners Methodist Episcopal church where they have lived defiantly since last January.

Spiering, who claimed the church as his property and who was the principal in several court actions designed to oust him, lost a long fight when Circuit Court Judge R. J. Dady issued a writ of restriction ordering immediate vacancy of the church.

Spiering moved his family into the church after his house had burned. He claimed the property on the ground the church had been abandoned and thereby had reverted in title to his mother who once had owned part of the land.

Habitual Criminal Executed In Texas

Hunstville, Tex., July 28—(AP)— Will Jenkins, 46, was executed in the state prison today, the first person to pay the supreme penalty under a state habitual criminal law. He was sentenced for attacking a 12-year-old Negro girl in Houston.

MODEL BOY SENT TO PENITENTIARY FOR KILLING COP

Chicago Judge Sentenced Lad, Aged 15, To Serve 15 Years

Chicago, July 28—(AP) A fifteen-year-old "model boy" who shot a policeman to death when ordered out of a high school swimming pool was sentenced to 18 years in Joliet penitentiary today.

His teacher called Varner Corry a "model" pupil. Alienists testified the boy had an "underdeveloped sense of moral values."

Judge Joseph Sabath, who heard the case after the boy pleaded not guilty, read a seven and one-half page summary of the case, severely criticizing the parents and imposing a penitentiary sentence despite the lad's youth. He pointed out that he had personally made arrangements with Warden Henry C. Hill for Corry's incarceration and that he would be eligible for parole in 10 years and 3 months, at the age of 25.

Used Stolen Pistol

Varner, a younger brother and another boy broke into a school building to go swimming and were ordered out of the pool by Smith. Varner shot him with a stolen revolver he was accustomed to carrying. The other boys were released to juvenile authorities and Varner pleaded not guilty, waiving jury trial. His attorneys asked for dismissal of the case on the ground no premeditation or malice had been shown. The state asked for an "object lesson" despite testimony of alienists that the boy did not know the difference between right and wrong at the moment he pulled the trigger.

The judge made a special trip to the penitentiary of Varner who, although less than 18 years old, was indicted and tried for first degree murder. Smith's widow refused to agree to a less serious charge being placed against the boy.

To Be Protested

The Warden agreed to keep Varner out of the company of hardened criminals. Varner will be eligble for parole in ten years and three months.

Varner blinked as he heard the prison sentence, but quickly became composed and betrayed no emotion as his father and mother followed him out of the courtroom and sobbed over him.

Mrs. Helen Smith, widow of the slain policeman, said only "I'm satisfied."

It was her insistence on the boy's trial for murder that blocked efforts of his attorneys to have him plead guilty to manslaughter.

Amboy Students Win Scholarship Awards

Two Amboy township high school students have been honored in receiving scholarship awards at the University of Illinois, resulting from the competitive scholarship examination held last June. Miss Charlotte A. Hatch and John Fleming, both graduates of the Amboy township high school each have been awarded the honor, which amounts to $295 in the four year course at the university. Young Fleming, son of William Fleming, Amboy rural mail carrier, is the third member of this family to receive the scholarship honors and averaged 96 1-7 in his examination which included seven subjects.

Miss Hatch averaged 85½ in five subjects and through the activity of County Superintendent L. W. Miller, was also awarded the university scholarship honors. Both students will enroll this fall for the four year course at Urbana. John Fleming bears the added distinction of having finished his high school course in three years.

Burns Prove Fatal To "Follies" Beauty

New York, July 28 (AP)— Broadway today mourned Miss Helen A. Walsh, beautiful 21-year-old Follies girl, who died at a hospital in Greenport L. I., yesterday from the burns received when an explosion destroyed Harry Richman's yacht Sunday.

A few moments after she died, Richman clowned and sang to a Follies audience, unaware that the girl, whom he risked his life to save, had succumbed. He was not told of it until after the show.

Virginia Biddle, of the Follies, also burned in the explosion, is still at the hospital and will recover, her physicians said. The others injured in the blast, including Mark Hellinger, newspaper columnist, were discharged from the hospital yesterday.

Miss Walsh was a native of New York and had been on the stage for five years. She was in the chorus of "Simple Simon" and "Whoopee."

FORMER MAYOR OF MATTOON IS CALLED FIREBUG

Confessed Accomplice Accuses Him From Witness Stand

Charleston, Ill., July 28 —(AP)— Attempting to connect former Mayor George A. Kiser of Mattoon, witht a series of alleged arson cases over a period of several years, county and state authorities here today reviewed most of the major fires in Coles county for the past twenty years.

Following the comp'etion of the jury to try Kiser on a charge of arson growing out of the destruction of his agency garage in Charleston last December, States Attorney Heinlein announced that he has evidence to show that the former Mayor of Mattoon has been connected with at least five other similar fires.

Ramsey Pattin, 61 years old, of Trilla, confessed firebug, who has admitted that he started more than 50 fires during the past twenty years so that the owners of property may collect insurance, was one of the major witnesses for the state.

The aged man said that he had received $200 for firing the garage in Charleston. He testified that Kiser first asked him to do the job in the summer of 1930, but that he refused "because too many people are out and about in the nights."

Under questioning from the State's Attorney, Pattin said that he had worked for Kiser for twenty years. When asked what work he did for the former city official, Pattin replied "well he employed me to burn down some houses and barns."

Ira Shull also of Trilla was another witness called by the state. He said that he had been engaged by Pattin to do the actual work of setting the garage afire, and that he and Pattin and Schuyler Pattin, a brother, had met at Kiser's home on the night the garage was destroyed.

After the garage and cars in it had been covered with oil and gasoline, he said, a large bundle of bread wrapper was thrown in the stairway to hasten the spread of the flames. He said that the oil and gasoline was furnished by Kiser who drove him and the Pattins to the garage.

LINDBERGHS ALSO LEAVE FOR AERIAL VACATION ABROAD

Stirring Aviation News From Here, Europe And Arctic Sea

BY UNITED PRESS.

Long distance fliers all over the globe were cutting time and space today in flights by airplanes and dirigibles, while an undersea craft followed an uncharted course that lead under the ice to the Arctic.

Two planes started from New York; in one were Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon headed around the world to beat the Post-Gatty record, and in the other were Russell Boardman and John Polando, headed for Istanbul, Turkey.

• • • •

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh shared interest in the aviation activity the New York-to-Paris solo flier helped stir up four years ago as they started from Washington on their summer vacation aerial tour of the Orient via "the front yard of the Arctic."

Amy Johnson, daring English girl flier, daughter of a Hull fish merchant, hoped to reach Moscow today, and Tokio, her destination, within ten days. She passed over Berlin early today enroute from England. She previously won fame for her flight from England to Australia.

• • • •

The Graf Zeppelin, in a scientific Polar exploration flight, has reached Franz Josef Land. It planned to be absent from Friedrichshafen six days. Hugo Eckener was in command.

Meanwhile, the submarine Nautilus commanded by Sir Hubert Wilkins, Arctic explorer, was en route from Plymouth, Eng., where it has been undergoing repairs to Bergen, Norway, a stopping point on its projected cruise to the Arctic under ice.

Boardman-Polando Started Wrong Way—

New York, July 28— (AP) — Hours after Russell Boardman and John Polando took off for Turkey today officials at Floyd Bennett Field were anxiously awaiting news of them, because when last seen they were going in the wrong direction.

There was a west wind blowing and so the fliers had to take off into the west. The heavily loaded plane, which last week they were unable to keep in the air, rose sluggishly and skimmed out over the bay. It was believed after gaining sufficient altitude the fliers would turn and pass again over the field, heading up the coast for Newfoundland. But the plane continued lumbering westward until it faded from sight. It was generally supposed it had swung in a wide circle and so was invisible from the field as it struck its course for the east, but neverthless word was awaited with some anxiety.

LINDBERGHS HOP OFF.

Washington, July 28 —(UP)— A perspiration-soaked young man and his sun-scorched wife started today for a vacation flight to Asia. Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh flew away from Naval Air Station at 1:21 P. M., E. S. T.

Clad in a riding habit better suited to cool bride paths than to the muggy, riverside atmosphere of Washington, Mrs. Lindbergh sat for more than two hours in the open cockpit of the Lockheed Sirius speedster while Colonel Lindbergh tested equipment.

The Colonel perspired. He shucked his cot. A blue shirt which had been crisp from a laundry before breakfast crumpled and finally clung in damp folds to his back.

In Terrific Heat.

Dots and dashes sputtered from the Lindbergh radio set to a station at North Beach, Long Island. Mrs. Lindbergh is the radio officer of the Lockheed. But the Colonel has not changed much since the day he tenkered his Ryan cabin plane to perfection and flew off to Paris. Lindbergh still does his own tseting and tinkering. Mrs. Lindbergh sat motionless in the front cockpit of the grateful low-wing plane. She went abroad at 10:30 A. M. and there was no shade.

David E. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and a World War ace, strolled down the sloping concrete dock to the moored craft. Chatting with Mrs. Lindbergh for a few moments, Ingalls returned.

"I don't see how she can stand it in that sun," said Ingalls, seeking shade near a hangar.

Lindbergh said he expected to fly to North Haven, Maine, home of Senator and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, parents of Mrs. Lindbergh.

Lindbergh raced the Lockheed Sirius back and forth in front of the

One Dead, Two Hurt By Oil Tank Blast

Kilgore, Tex., July 28 —(UP)—One man was killed, two were seriously burned, and the lives of 10,000 others were endangered today by an oil tank which exploded and created a lake of flames within two blocks of Kilgore's business district.

Asbestos-clad veterans who explored the vicinity around the tank reported at daybreak that the danger zone had been cleared of bodies and workmen, but expressed fear that a sudden shift in wind might sweep the flames across the mushroom town and wipe out its many wooden structures.

There was an added danger that the fire would ignite the Butts No. 1 well, an "occasional" gusher, the controls of which were said to be open and which is so near the flaming tank that should is spout unexpectedly, firemen said nothing could prevent it catching fire and spraying the blaze over the town and crowd.

Early reports that at least six were trapped by the fire were found by firefighters apparently to be wrong and they said they believed only one man, Clyde Erskine, a driller, had been killed. Charles Tomlinson, another driller and William Hood were severly burned. Earlier persons in the crowd reported they had seen men writhing on the ground near the tank.

The storage tank exploded last night with a crash that shook the town and sprayed flaming oil about the neighborhood.

Moscow, July 28—(AP)—The cabled request that Lady Astor and George Bernard Shaw help the wife of Professor Dmitri Krynin of Yale University to obtain permission to leave Russia was in the hands of Soviet officials today.

Lady Astor informally presented the request through an officer of the Soviet literary and educational organization which is acting as host to the members of her party. She explained she did not take the matter up herself with the government as she is in Russia only as a visiting foreigner.

WOMAN IS FREED OF KILLING HER UNTRUE HUSBAND

Coroner's Jury Accepted Story Of Mrs. Harbaugh

Chicago, July 28—(UP)— Mrs. Elizabeth Harbaugh, 22-year-old small town girl, whose husband, Dell 44-year-old inventor, was killed with her pistol, was free today to try to find alone the "road to happiness" which she and Harbaugh sought together unsuccessfully.

A Coroner's jury heard her story of the struggle preceding the death of her Romeo husband, who had promised to be true, and held Harbaugh's shooting was accidental. The State's Attorney's office announced it would not prosecute.

Mrs. Harbaugh related the two separations over Harbaugh's love affairs and the subsequent reconciliations, and told of the list of rules—the "Road to Happiness" they called it—which stressed fidelity as one of conditions of the reunion, which failed.

The middle-aged inventor's return to his love affairs was an indirect cause of his death, she said, for discovery that he had not abandoned his philandering moved her to go with him to keep a suspended romantic appointment which he had represented as a business engagement.

Mrs. Harbaugh never learned whether that appointment was with a woman, as she feared. As they walked along, she threatened to commit suicide. Harbaugh, she said, tried to snatch a revolver from her dress pocket, and was killed in the struggle.

air station several times to warm up the motor and finally titled its nose up and away. Just before departing, both did, some personal telephoning from the the executive office of the air station.

Should Arrive this Eve.

But if all is well, the fliers should be at North Haven, Me., by 7 P. M., E. S. T. Lindbergh said he anticipated the trip would take about six hours without taking into account a slightly favorable tail wind.

Both Lindberghs wore parachutes as is their custom and they had some sandwiches in case they got hungry during their trip. Neither of them had luncheon before leaving the air station.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ingalls, who is in charge of aeronautics, was the last person to say good-bye.

"So long, Dave. You've been mighty kind to us," Lindbergh said.

It was a shirt sleeve start to an adventure which will be cold enough before it is ended. Neither wore a coat at the get away. Mrs. Lindbergh wore a blue shirt, jodhpurs and brown shoes. Lindbergh wore a dark suit.

The plane carried about 250 gallons of gas, two-thirds of capacity.

OCEAN PLANES LEAVE.

Floyd Bennet Airport, New York, July 28—(AP)—Two powerful monoplanes took off within 18 minutes of each other on non-stop trans-Atlantic flights today.

The Bellanca Monoplane "Cape Cod" manned by Russell Boardman of Boston and John Polando of Linn, Mass., rolled down the 4,100-foot runway at exactly 5 a. m. eastern standard time and skimmed away at an altitude or no more than 60 feet until it was lost to sight. They are heading for Istanbul, Turkey, about 5,500 miles away.

The second plane to take off was that of Hugh Herndon, Jr., former Princeton student, and Clyde Pangborn, veteran circus flier. They rolled away at 5:18 a. m. eastern standard time, on an intended flight around the world with Mocow, 5,400 miles away, as their first objective.

Weather Ideal

Weather condition across the entire Atlantic were described as ideal for the flights by Dr. James S. Kimball, government meteorologist and unofficial starter.

For the first time since the Byrd flight, Dr. Kimball arrived at the field to see the take-offs of both planes. Another visitor was Guisseppe Bellanca, designer of the two planes.

Field officials feared the Boardman-Polando plane might meet with difficulties because of its great weight. It carried 718 gallons of gasoline and 25-gallons of oil, sufficient fuel to keep it going 7,000 miles if necessary. It is propelled by a 300 horsepower Wright engine.

This plane has yellow wings with black trimmings, and a black fuselage with the words "Cape Cod" painted in blue. Its number is "NR-761-W."

Hope for New Record

They hope to eclipse the present long-distance record set by Coste Le Brix, who flew 4,912 miles nonstop.

Herndon and Pangborn's red monoplane has a 500-horse powered motor and is capable of cruising at 125 miles an hour. It carries 850 gallons of gasoline, enough to travel for 5,500 miles without a halt.

Their first attempt ten days ago at Roosevelt Field almost cost them their lives as their over-laden plane failed to rise at the end of the runway and almost crashed into a hangar and telegprah poles. They were forced to dump half of their gasolene to gain altitude to save themselves from crashing.

Although their plane has a slower cruising speed than the "Winnie Mae," Herndon and Pangborn hope to beat the round-the-world record by flying longer distances. They have dual controls.

Their monoplane is orange-red and its number is "NR-796-W."

In Wake of Twelve

New York, July 28—AP)—Twelve planes have succeeded in crossing the north Atlantic from west to east in advance of the two which started today, but since 1927 none have flown nonstop directly from New York.

The first of all was made from Newfoundlnd by John Alcock ond Arthur W. Brown in 1919.

Then came Lindbergh in 1927, direct from New York, and he was followed by Chamberlain and Levine and Admiral Byrd and his three-man crew. Since then there have been no successful non-stop flights from New York.

Brock and Schlee left from Newfoundland as did Amelia Earhart and her two men pilots.

The Frenchmen of the Yellow Bird and their American stowaway took off from Old Orchard Beach, Me., which was also the departure point for Roger Q. Williams and Lewis Yancey.

Harbor Grace was the starting point last eyar for Boyd and O'Connor and this year for Post and Gatty Hillig and Hoiriis, and Maygyar and Endres.

Most fliers have chosen to break their journey from New York so they would not have to carry such a heavy load of fuel, but there was good reason for today's fliers going non-stop.

Boardman and Polando are trying for a long distance record, so there can be no half way points on their schedule. And Pangborn and Herndon are depending on long trips to beat Post and Gatty around the world, thus making up for their lesser speed.

GRAF KEEPS RENDEZVOUS

Friedrichshafen, Germany, July 28—(AP)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commanding the Graf Zeppelin on her Arctic cruise, notified the Zeppelin Works by radio today that the big dirigible had landed briefly in the bay off Hooker Island, Franz Josef land.

For thirteen minutes she rested on the still waters of the bay near the Russian icebreaker Maligin, which sailed for the rendezvous.

Floating ice in the Arctic bay made it inadvisable for the Graf to remain on the water longer than she did.

Atmospheric disturbances made radio reception difficult, but it was said that the landing took place early last night and the Graf and the Maligin exchanged mail.

ing the blaze were in constant danger because high winds carried embers miles ahead of the front line and threatened to trap them by starting new blazes.

Flames had leveled 30,000 acres of forest in that vicinity, raced through the Pend Oreill forest in Idaho and across the state line into the Yaak river section of the Kootenai forest in Montana.

Fires were sweeping unchecked up all sides of Mount Diabolo, Destroying a state park and many valuable trees. Scores of men, including all prisoners from the Contra Costa jail, were fighting there.

Another serious fire was burning over 4,000 acres of forest in Lassen National Park. A 3,000 acre blaze threatened the mining town of Drytown.

W. S. Rider, Deputy State Forester of California, said lack of humidity and intense heat made the situation one of the most serious in the history of the west.

PERRY, MODERN BLUEBEARD, PUT ON TRIAL TODAY

Says He'll Prove He Did Not Kill One Of His Wives In Northland

Eagle River, Wis., July 28—(UP)—George W. E. "Jiggs" Perry faced trial today on charges of being a modern Bluebeard who married six women bigamously and murdered one of them with a borrowed rifle on a northland Indian Reservation.

District Attorney Edmund H. Drager predicted a jury would be selected quickly from the first venire of resort owners, farmers, guides and business men. Two women were among the prospective jurors.

"I may be a bigamist, but I'll prove I'm not a Bluebeard," declared Perry as the state began its attempt to prove that he murdered Cora Belle Hackett-Perry on the Lac du Flambeau Indian Reservation in July, 1930.

While Perry was secretive about his defense, Dragger outlined openly his offensive plan to contend that "Jiggs" was a wandering Romeo who deserted his legal wife and three children, led one woman after another into bigamous marriages, deserted five of them and killed the other because he couldn't get rid of her any other way.

The story as the state tells it is that Perry discovered while working as a brakeman in Milwaukee that it was no trouble for him to induce women to fall in love with him.

Deserted Family

Leaving his legal wife and children without means of support, he set out, the state charges, upon a Bluebeardian career which has few parallels in modern history.

He met Mrs. Hackett, the state charges, through a want ad in a newspaper. She was the widow of a United States Secret Service agent, owned an automobile, some furniture and had some money.

The state says she fell under the charm of his personality, was married to him and they came to the northland country on their honeymoon.

Four times the state charges, Perry borrowed a rifle from a resort owner and he and his bride went into the forests to hunt for game. The fourth time she didn't return and months later her body was found by an Indian guide. Startling revelations followed and even while the police chased Perry from state to state half way across the nation, he continued, it is charged, to marry women almost whenever and wherever he wished and to desert them just as easily.

In the absence of Judge Alexander H. Reid, who was ill, Judge Charles M. Davison came here from Janeau county to preside at the trial.

MINERS TAKING UP THEIR HOMES IN TENT CITIES

Evicted From Company Owned Houses Near Strike Areas

Pittsburgh, July 28—(AP)—In the shadows of dust-laden tipples, often so close to the black, silent pits that one can hear the dripping of water from rocks down in the darkness, striking bituminous miners are setting up new homes in cities made of tents.

Evictions from company houses continue as the labor controversy in western Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Ohio spreads despite all efforts to restore peace, and tent colonies dot the green hills and fields through which the mines are sprinkled.

Another tent city was counted today in the vicinity of Coverdale, Pa., where yesterday approximately 50 women and children comprising the families of striking miners, removed their belongings to a field adjoining the workings.

The evicted miners, announced they would continue defiance of the operators from their tents. The eviction, carried on under guard of state police, was orderly.

Meanwhile authorities continued their investigation into the attempted assassination yesterday of P. T. Fagan, president of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America. Fagan, accosted by a man who said he was from Kentucky and had been sent to kill him, wrested a gun from his assailant and killed him.

The man, believed to have been Patrick Murphy, a Kentucky miner, was the subject of sweeping inquiry today as was Fred Schneider, alias Fred Snyder, Fleming, Ky., his companion, who was captured by police shortly after the shooting on the front lawn of Fagan's home. Fagan was released after telling his story to the police.

Submarine Set Sail For Arctic At Dawn

Plymouth, July 28—(AP)— The submarine Nautilus, in which Sir Hubert Wilkins plans to cross the North Pole under the ice, left today for Bergen, Norway, en route to the Arctic.

Hundreds of Americans witnessed the departure of Sir Hubert in his little craft as she passed alongside the Mauretania, just in from New York.

Passengers aboard the liner cheered the explorers lustily.

What Paris is Wearing

By K. D'ORSAY

PARIS—Now that evening scarfs are being abandoned more or less, scarf necklaces are being taken up as an important Paris evening fashion. They are not like the scarf necklaces that were worn a few seasons ago, but are smaller and flatter, in the manner of the necklace sketched.

Entirely made of diamonds, and worn with two round diamond bracelets, and with a white satin dress, this costume sketched is of the type that is considered perfect by the smart Parisienne. It is almost a uniform with her—this combination of all-white dress with all-diamond jewelry—and no matter how many women appear wearing it, it never ceases to be the ideal Paris evening ensemble.

Note that the jewels are neither elaborate nor in any startling quantity. The day is past when women liked the idea of wearing all the jewels they owned with one costume. It is considered smarter, so

Scarf Effect Is New in Necklace Fashions

Paris jewelers say, to wear two or three pieces of really fine jewelry by themselves, so as not to detract from their beauty by the pressure of quantity.

Bridge Luncheon Despite the Heat

Why wait for a cool day, when there "ain't none,"—so thought the ladies who valiantly signed up for the bridge luncheon at the Country Club today despite the torrid atmosphere. But there was a breeze even if it was a hot one. Twenty-six ladies were in attendance at the luncheon and they greatly enjoyed the cool, appetizing food prepared by the cateress, followed by bridge.

And golfers—I should say so—these intrepid enthusiasts were not affected by old Sol, in fact they all made a pal of him, though his advances were far too warm to be quite comfortable, but golf was the aim, and was played by quite a number of the lovers of the game.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

©1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

One of te most heinous sins left out of the Commandments is lying to our children. I suppose there isn't a parent living who, for reasons best known to himself has not fibbed at one time or another to his offspring.

It may be that it is justified in a measure sometimes where the good of the child over-balances the question of honesty, but such occasions will be rare. The plain fact is that most people feel privileged to play fast and loose with truthfulness where their children are concerned.

As it happens, I have come across a whole avalanche of promising mothers, threatening mothers, and nondescript mothers who make pitiful victims of their children—particularly their smallest ones. This is especially irritating to me because little folk are so trusting, so easily misled and fooled.

A Promise to be Broken

"I don't want to go to bed!"

"Oh, yes, darling, do go to bed. If you do and promise to go right to sleep like a god boy, I'll buy you something nice tomorrow. I'll take you along when I go marketing and will stop at Mr. Schultz' toy store."

The next morning is quite another story. Aside from the bribery which was wrong in the first place, there is the broken promise. Small Billy kept his part of the bargain, went up dutifully to bed and tried his best to sleep. His first thought in the morning was about the boats and airplanes at the marvelous Schultz's, but his mother is amazed that she is expected to keep her word.

"You said! You said!" whimpers Billy. "You promised I could go along and you'd get me something."

"Never tell me what I said," replies his mother impatiently. "Little boys don't know about things. I can't take you, so shut up!"

Billy starts to cry. "Stop that crying—instantly. Do you hear? I'd be ashamed." But Billy, confused, hurt and disappointed, can not dry his tears. "If you don't stop I'll punish you. You can't have any dessert tonight."

He'll Get His Just Desserts

She knows very well that she is not telling the truth—that Billy will have his share of the peach cobbler. The threat of course is merely not knowing what else to do in the way of discipline, but it is also a form of untrouth. Like bribery not lived up to, it becomes a more serious breach of confidence when it is empty with falsity.

Such a mother sometimes brags that she has never punished her children, yet it is a cruel sort of punishment indeed if her child loses fait hin his mother's word. I am not merely recommending that she carry out either her promise or her threat—I am insisting that she make neither in the first place. There are good promises and bad ones of course; threats too, may be allowed occasionally if they are in the form of legitimate warning, but untruth has little excuse at all. It is not rare——this method of discipline among the children. Unfortunately it is the commonest thing on earth.

Glorifying Yourself—

The profile angle to beauty that comes in with new hats makes the mouth make-up quite different.

When girls faced the world with a brat of a little hat back on their heads and eyes straight and lips parted in excitement, it was right and proper to center makeup right smack in the center of the lips.

Now, with the interesting view profile, the corners of the mouth are more interesting than the center front. You must be expert in the way you trace your lips right to their outer edges.

There is art to be learned in the make-up of lips. Some women who have no suggestion of dimples in the corners of the mouths seem to have, just because they understand how to make lipstick improve them. Others, with quite full, thick lips, achieve a certain appearance of delicacy just because they know the art of lipstick application.

The rule for lipstick this summer, under the new hats, is to concentrate all the art you have on the corners. You can safely assume you will be noticed more from the side view than from the full front. Make your mouth up accordingly. This means not to have a vivid blob right in the center and let the rest of the lips go.

Some mouths are best treated when lipstick does a disappearing act at the corners. Others need it put on more expertly and fully there. You can look at yourself in the glass and see which type of mouth you have.

By and large, the full-lipped mouth loses some of its fullness if you smooth the lipstick right out to the very ends of the corners. Have it even all the way. Let the corners be as bright at the center.

Wide mouths, big mouths, with lips not necessarily thick but very wide, should have the rouge dwindling off before quite reaching the corners. This makes them seem daintier, more in the spirit of the new mode in hats and dresses.

FASHION DECREES DRESS OF 'SEVENTIES—

Paris—(AP)—Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvestant is among smart sponsors of the romantic vogue of the seventies which is making its appearance in Parisian fashions.

Mrs. Stuyvestant appeared at the races at Auteuil during the Grand Semaine in a long frock of white mousseline and a short close-fitting black velvet jacket.

MARQUISE FINDS PRINTS SMART WEAR—

Paris (AP)— The Marquise Sommi-Piccenardi is among smart women wearing prints this year. She lunched at the Ritz recently in a black crepe frock patterned with small yellow flowers.

With it she wore a little roll-brimmed hat, trimmed with a black quill pointing skyward in the back.

ARE THE JOBLESS TO BLAME?

There has been apparent lately a tendency on the part of some American business leaders to suggest that the distressing plight of the unemployed workers is at least partly the result of the workers' own improvidence.

Since the depression has brought such proposals as unemployment insurance to the fore, this suggestion has been voiced quite frequently. We have been assured that no such "paternalistic" scheme can ever take the place of individual thrift and self-reliance.

A sample is given in a recent statement by a leading banker. After pointing out that industrial executives must exercise a better brand of economic foresight than they have displayed in the past, he adds:

"It is the duty of the individual to make every effort to take care of himself and provide for himself. Neither government nor industry can do that. They can give him the opportunity to succeed but they can't succeed for him. He must out of his own initiative and effort earn and create his own means and defenses against the requirements and contingencies of life."

This is all perfectly true, but it begs the question.

If any industrious and conscientious citizen could always hold a job as long as he deserved it, there would be no sense in talking about unemployment insurance. It is precisely because millions of men in the last two years have lost their jobs through no fault of their own that unemployment insurance is a live issue today.

When depressions are done with forever, and every citizen can stay on the job as long as he delivers the goods—then it will be time enough to talk the individual's duty to take care of himself. Just now that kind of talk is not very convincing.

HE SHOULDN'T BE ALONE.

Albert B. Fall is in prison at last, and the scandalous oil deals of the Harding administration may be said, at last, to have come to their conclusion.

For Fall himself, in his hour of adversity, it is hard to keep from feeling a sort of sympathy.

He is getting, of course, precisely what he deserves. A prison cell is the only place for a cabinet minister who stoops to bribery. And yet—well, Fall was not the only culprit in the whole business.

Through a singular quirk of justice, Fall was convicted of bribery while everyone who was accused of giving him bribes was acquitted. The government official who betrayed his trust is in prison, where he belongs, but the men who connived at the betrayal are at liberty. Fall would arouse no sympathy were it not for the fact that he went to prison alone.

HIGHER PRICES AND PROSPERITY.

A stimulating comment on the widely-expressed theory that prosperity will not return until high prices have been restored is contained in a current bulletin from the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York. The bulletin remarks:

"As long as business policy is based on this theory, just so long will recovery from the depression be delayed. The argument is that prices cannot be reduced because of the cost of production. The fact remains that the cost of raw materials has been greatly reduced.

"The income of the producers of raw materials has been correspondingly reduced. These producers can no longer buy finished products, or services such as railroad transportation, in normal quantity. With reduced sales the producers of finished goods find their profits curtailed."

There is food for a good deal of thought in that comment.

Most Americans are born drunk and really require a little wine or beer to sober them.—G. K. Chesterton.

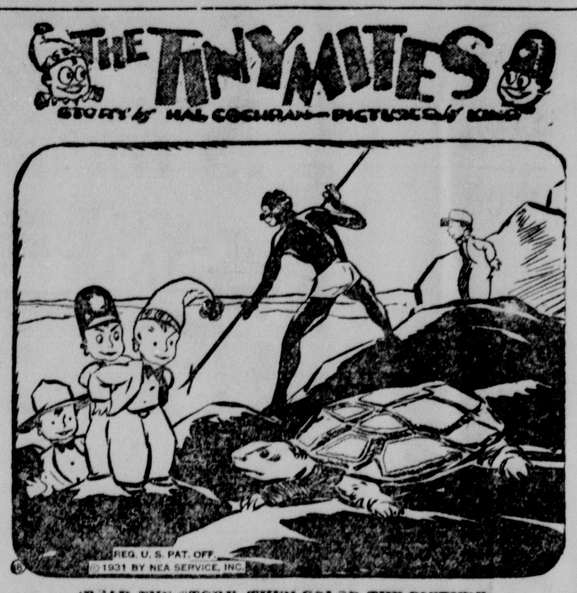

The advantages of an education are that it gives one power to enjoy his own mind and to do the things in life that he could not do without it.—Dr. Richard E. Dykes, president of St. Lawrence University.

In these days damsels don't get into distress, and if they do they are quite capable of getting out without our assistance.—Sir Gerald Wollaston.

Most schools in America today are simply places for parroting facts.—John Gould Fletcher.

The people of the United States live under an overwhelming flood of legislation, most of which is inconsequent, much of which is unnecessary, and not a little of which is distinctly mischievous.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

We must turn to education as a social vaccination against industrial ills.—Dean William F. Russell, New York Teachers' College.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Before the girls left, one said, "Say, how would you like to swim today? This is a very lovely little beach, with a sandy bottom, too! There is a bathhouse down the shore and they have lots of suits in store. If you will just ask, they will gladly rent a suit to each of you.

"We'll get our suits and join you soon. We must go in before it is noon because after eating we can't swim for about an hour or so."

The Travel Man then to the bunch said, "I think that's a dandy hunch Now everybody hurry. In the water we will go."

It wasn't very long till everyone was having just a heap of fun. One of the girls to Clowny cried "Come on let's have a race. We'll swim along from yonder stake and see what good time we can make." And when the race was over, Clowny was in second place.

"Say! You are real good," he very loudly cried. "I must admit I really tried, but I was fairly beaten. You were much too fast for me." And then the girl said, "Well, 'twas fun and I was just the lucky one. Perhaps 'twas because there's not a day when I'm not in the sea."

By this time everyone had had enough of the swimming. They were glad to get into their clothes again. The girls then said, "Goodby," and went upon their merry way. Said Coppy, "We've had fun today. and there is still more fun in store. A fisherman I spy."

Up to the fisherman they went, and shortly found his time was spent in spearing great big turtles. Scouty asked, "What are they for?" The man replied, "For soup, my son." And catching them is heaps of fun. I'm trying to get a second one. My first one's on the shore." (The Tinymites see a Hawaiian dancer in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

BRITISH WAR SUMMARY

On July 28, 1917, Major General Frederick B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the British war office, issued a summary of the war results of three years of war. He said in part:

"The first year of the world war, broadly speaking, was an attempt by Germany to put into effect elaborate plans which her military strategists had been preparing over the space of many long years. The first phase was a concentrated attack on France and Belguim ..... The attack on France was checked, first on the Marne, later on the Yser and at Ypres.

"In the autumn of 1915 Germany definitely abandoned her old pre-war strategic scheme and started in on a new plan .... namely an effort to upbuild 'Mittel Europa' as a great block composed of four so-called central powers which would command the road to the east.

"The end of 1916 found the situation between the two groups of contestants about equaly balanced, but with the scales leaning slightly in favor of the entente. During the whole third year of the war Germany and her allies attempted nothing on land. They everywhere have been on the defensive."

BABIES IN SUMMER

Some 25 years ago an enterprising statistician established the fact that in New York City there was a direct correlation between the softness of the asphalt and the deaths of infants.

This astonishing correlation did not establish any effect of soft asphalt on babies' health. The simple fact was that heat softens asphalt—heat also taxes the babies' small strength.

While older people find winter the most trying season, infants are taxed by the hot months.

One explanation is that babies have less body surface per unit of body bulk than do the adults, hence radiate their heat less readily.

Also, they are more liable to gastric upsets; also during the hot months food becomes spoiled more readily.

By observing a few simple precautions, the young child can be made both comfortable and safe during the summer. Infants and babies should be let alone as much as possible. They should not be handled unnecessarily.

They should not be exposed to contamination or infection by being indiscriminately handed around.

Babies should be protected against insects, particularly the dirty house fly, and this precaution should not only affect the babies' themselves, but their utensils and food.

Every effort should be made to keep the child cool. Its clothing should be light in weight and color and should fit loosely.

While the child should be kept outdoors, it should be protected against the direct rays of the sun.

Three or four spongings with tepid water will keep the baby comfortable, and in the very hot days, added comfort for the child can be secured by wiping its head and face every hour or so with a cool, moist cloth.

Care should be taken that the child has plenty of cool, not cold, water to drink. It can't speak up to say, "I'm thirsty."

TEXAS CORN WARNS OF HARD WINTER

"I have always heard," Pearce said, "that when corn has a heavy shuck it is a sure sign of real cold weather. Corn this year has an unusually thick coating of shucks."

IMPORTANCE OF BROWN SHOE CO. GETS PUBLICITY

Financial Publication Tells Of Output Of Dixon Shoe Factory

The importance of the Brown Shoe Company, which operates the local plant in connection with the output of footwear in the United States, is stressed in an editorial appearing in a recent issue of Barron's a financial publication. Under the heading, "Shoe Manufacturers Busy. International and Brown in St. Louis district continue large output despite seasonal lull," the article says:

"Current operations of the two major shoe manufacturers in the St. Louis district, International Shoe and Brown Shoe, are holding at a high level, despite the present period being the "in between" season. At this time, usually, the main summer demand has been met and production shows some slowing up until orders for delivery of the new fall lines have started to come in, in volume sufficient to indicate the extent of future requirements.

"However, manufacturers anticipate a good fall and winter trade, even in the event of only a normal seasonal demand, due the the low level of stocks on retailers' shelves. A similar condition exists also, in respect to the quantity of manufacturers' investments of finished merchandise, which have been below normal since the severely curtailed production schedules were affected during the latter part of 1930.

"Many units of the International and Brown Shoe are operating at capacity, particularly those producing popular-priced grades, especially lines of women's novelty footwear. Brown Shoe Company, is favorably situated in this respect, as practically the whole of its units are engaged in the manufacture of shoes which retail from $4 to $5 a pair.

95 Pct. Of Capacity

"International Shoe Company, has stepped output up to 187,000 pairs of shoes a day, the highest rate in more than a year, and only 13,000 pairs below the peak of 200,000 pairs reached during October, 1929. The Brown Shoe Company's, production is continuing at the same high level as reported by the management during the first week of June when factories were at 95 per cent of capacity. The company has a theoretical capacity of 70,000 pairs a day.

"The company will soon put on the market a new specialty line of girls' footwear which will be manufactured by the W. B. Johnson Shoe Comany, Dixon, Illinois, which has been organized as a branch of the Brown Shoe."

(Since the publication of the foregoing article, the W. B. Johnson shoes referred to have been placed on the market and a large number of orders have been received, which are now being manufactured and filled as rapidly as possible at the plant on First Street.)

Drownings Show Increase in July And During August

Chicago, July 28—(Special)— The drowning accidents throughout the United States reach their peak during July and August and on some days rival the motor vehicle as a cause of death, says the National Safety Council.

According to the most accurate information now available there were 139 drownings over the Fourth of July week-end holidays as compared with 118 auto deaths. While these figures will probably be revised on receipt of complete records, they indicate the seriousness of the drowning problem, says the council.

A Young Man's Hazard

Fatal water accidents take a toll of 8,000 lives annually, and 62 per cent of these drownings occur during the four months from May to August. Drowning is distinctly a hazard of young men. Nearly half of all drownings involve males under 25 years of age.

Hot weather, vacation trips fishing and boating excursions are obviously responsible for the rising toll in July and August. The Council suggests the following precautions as an aid to greater safety during the vacation season:

Learn to Swim!

Learn to swim at a supervised pool or beach.

Don't overestimate your ability to swim long distances.

Don't "rock the boat" or change seats in a canoe while in deep water.

Should your boat capsize far from shore, hang on to the boat and shout for help. Don't try to swim to the shore unless you are positive you can make it.

Don't go swimming alone.

Don't let children swim at unsupervised beaches.

Don't dive into water of unknown depth.

Don't go into the water too soon after a meal.

Learn prone pressure resuscitation —the most successful procedure a layman can know for saving the life of a person who has apparently drowned.

TWO TORTURERS OF AGED FARMER ARE HELD TODAY

Ex-Convicts Alleged To Have Treated An Old Man Brutally

Carrollton, Ill., July 27—(AP)—Charles Dailey and Roy Thomas, both about 40 years old, and both ex-convicts are in the Greene county jail here today charged with torturing Herman Hormon, 80, farmer of near here, who was left for dead Saturday night, after he had refused to reveal the supposed hiding place of his treasure.

Thomas, who has served a term at Southern Illinois penitentiary, was arrested here last night at home with his wife and two children. Dailey, who served a prison term three years ago for shooting Truman Hunt, was arrested four miles northwest of here at another home. State's Attorney E. J. Coyle said they would be held to await action of the grand jury.

Ears Torn Loose

At Walton hospital in White Hall, physicans fouhd Hormon's ears had about been torn from his head and that his head, arms and back had been beaten. According to Hormon's story, first told when he staggered to the home of a neighbor 6 o'clock Sunday morning, the two men entered his lonely farm near Kaser elevator during the night and demanded that he reveal the hiding place of his money.

When he refused he was subjected to torture until he lapsed into unconsciousness. His torturers took $60, a revolver and a watch, and left him lying on the floor.

After several hours he revived and went for help, and was taken to the hospital. Late Sunday afternoon he described his torturers to Sheriff Burton, who made the arrests.

ARE THE JOBLESS TO BLAME?

There has been apparent lately a tendency on the part of some American business leaders to suggest that the distressing plight of the unemployed workers is at least partly the result of the workers' own improvidence.

Since the depression has brought such proposals as unemployment insurance to the fore, this suggestion has been voiced quite frequently. We have been assured that no such "paternalistic" scheme can ever take the place of individual thrift and self-reliance.

A sample is given in a recent statement by a leading banker. After pointing out that industrial executives must exercise a better brand of economic foresight than they have displayed in the past, he adds:

"It is the duty of the individual to make every effort to take care of himself and provide for himself. Neither government nor industry can do that. They can give him the opportunity to succeed but they can't succeed for him. He must out of his own initiative and effort earn and create his own means and defenses against the requirements and contingencies of life."

This is all perfectly true, but it begs the question.

If any industrious and conscientious citizen could always hold a job as long as he deserved it, there would be no sense in talking about unemployment insurance. It is precisely because millions of men in the last two years have lost their jobs through no fault of their own that unemployment insurance is a live issue today.

When depressions are done with forever, and every citizen can stay on the job as long as he delivers the goods—then it will be time enough to talk the individual's duty to take care of himself. Just now that kind of talk is not very convincing.

HE SHOULDN'T BE ALONE.

Albert B. Fall is in prison at last, and the scandalous oil deals of the Harding administration may be said, at last, to have come to their conclusion.

For Fall himself, in his hour of adversity, it is hard to keep from feeling a sort of sympathy.

He is getting, of course, precisely what he deserves. A prison cell is the only place for a cabinet minister who stoops to bribery. And yet—well, Fall was not the only culprit in the whole business.

Through a singular quirk of justice, Fall was convicted of bribery while everyone who was accused of giving him bribes was acquitted. The government official who betrayed his trust is in prison, where he belongs, but the men who connived at the betrayal are at liberty. Fall would arouse no sympathy were it not for the fact that he went to prison alone.

HIGHER PRICES AND PROSPERITY.

A stimulating comment on the widely-expressed theory that prosperity will not return until high prices have been restored is contained in a current bulletin from the Alexander Hamilton Institute of New York. The bulletin remarks:

"As long as business policy is based on this theory, just so long will recovery from the depression be delayed. The argument is that prices cannot be reduced because of the cost of production. The fact remains that the cost of raw materials has been greatly reduced.

"The income of the producers of raw materials has been correspondingly reduced. These producers can no longer buy finished products, or services such as railroad transportation, in normal quantity. With reduced sales the producers of finished goods find their profits curtailed."

There is food for a good deal of thought in that comment.

Most Americans are born drunk and really require a little wine or beer to sober them.—G. K. Chesterton.

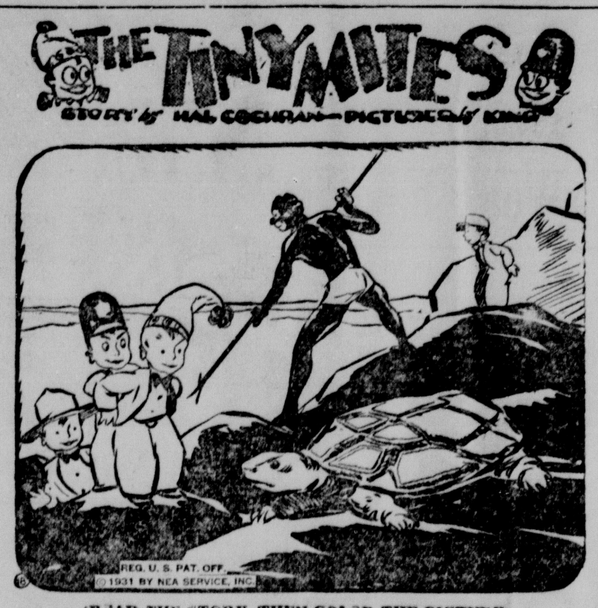

The advantages of an education are that it gives one power to enjoy his own mind and to do the things in life that he could not do without it.—Dr. Richard E. Dykes, president of St. Lawrence University.

In these days damsels don't get into distress, and if they do they are quite capable of getting out without our assistance.—Sir Gerald Wollaston.

Most schools in America today are simply places for parroting facts.—John Gould Fletcher.

The people of the United States live under an overwhelming flood of legislation, most of which is inconsequent, much of which is unnecessary, and not a little of which is distinctly mischievous.—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler.

We must turn to education as a social vaccination against industrial ills.—Dean William F. Russell, New York Teachers' College.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Before the girls left, one said, "Say, how would you like to swim today? This is a very lovely little beach, with a sandy bottom, too! There is a bathhouse down the shore and they have lots of suits in store. If you will just ask, they will gladly rent a suit to each of you.

"We'll get our suits and join you soon. We must go in before it is noon because after eating we can't swim for about an hour or so."

The Travel Man then to the bunch said, "I think that's a dandy hunch Now everybody hurry. In the water we will go."

It wasn't very long till everyone was having just a heap of fun. One of the girls to Clowny cried "Come on let's have a race. We'll swim along from yonder stake and see what good time we can make." And when the race was over, Clowny was in second place.

"Say! You are real good," he very loudly cried. "I must admit I really tried, but I was fairly beaten. You were much too fast for me." And then the girl said, "Well, 'twas fun and I was just the lucky one. Perhaps 'twas because there's not a day when I'm not in the sea."

By this time everyone had had enough of the swimming. They were glad to get into their clothes again. The girls then said, "Goodby," and went upon their merry way. Said Coppy, "We've had fun today. and there is still more fun in store. A fisherman I spy."

Up to the fisherman they went, and shortly found his time was spent in spearing great big turtles. Scouty asked, "What are they for?" The man replied, "For soup, my son." And catching them is heaps of fun. I'm trying to get a second one. My first one's on the shore." (The Tinymites see a Hawaiian dancer in the next story.)

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

BRITISH WAR SUMMARY

On July 28, 1917, Major General Frederick B. Maurice, chief director of military operations at the British war office, issued a summary of the war results of three years of war. He said in part:

"The first year of the world war, broadly speaking, was an attempt by Germany to put into effect elaborate plans which her military strategists had been preparing over the space of many long years. The first phase was a concentrated attack on France and Belgium ..... The attack on France was checked, first on the Marne, later on the Yser and at Ypres.

"In the autumn of 1915 Germany definitely abandoned her old pre-war strategic scheme and started in on a new plan .... namely an effort to upbuild 'Mittel Europa' as a great block composed of four so-called central powers which would command the road to the east.

"The end of 1916 found the situation between the two groups of contestants about equaly balanced, but with the scales leaning slightly in favor of the entente. During the whole third year of the war Germany and her allies attempted nothing on land. They everywhere have been on the defensive."

TEXAS CORN WARNS OF HARD WINTER

Coleman, Texas, (UP)— Weather sages of the plains are predicting a cold winter for 1931-32.

A. L. Pearce, former state representative, saw a warning for cold weather in the corn crop .

"I have always heard," Pearce said, "that when corn has a heavy shuck it is a sure sign of real cold weather. Corn this year has an unusually thick coating of shucks."

Daily Health Talk

HERE IS AID FOR HEAT PROSTRATION

Chicago, July 28, (Special)—Because the treatment is the exact opposite from that for heat stroke, the National Safety Council urges everyone to learn first aid for heat exhaustion, heat cramps and muscle cramps.

These are symptoms: The victim is pale, cold, clammy—down and out.

Call a doctor and an ambulance. While waiting, remove the victim to a comfortable place Cover him with blankets and apply hot water bottles.

KEEP HIM WARM!

BABIES IN SUMMER

Some 25 years ago an enterprising statistician established the fact that in New York City there was a direct correlation between the softness of the asphalt and the deaths of infants.

This astonishing correlation did not establish any effect of soft asphalt on babies' health. The simple fact was that heat softens asphalt—heat also taxes the babies' small strength.

While older people find winter the most trying season, infants are taxed by the hot months.

One explanation is that babies have less body surface per unit of body bulk than do the adults, hence radiate their heat less readily.

Also, they are more liable to gastric upsets; also during the hot months food becomes spoiled more readily.

By observing a few simple precautions, the young child can be made both comfortable and safe during the summer. Infants and babies should be let alone as much as possible. They should not be handled unnecessarily.

They should not be exposed to contamination or infection by being indiscriminately handed around.

Babies should be protected against insects, particularly the dirty house fly, and this precaution should not only affect the babies' themselves, but their utensils and food.

Every effort should be made to keep the child cool. Its clothing should be light in weight and color and should fit loosely.

While the child should be kept outdoors, it should be protected against the direct rays of the sun.

Three or four spongings with tepid water will keep the baby comfortable, and in the very hot days, added comfort for the child can be secured by wiping its head and face every hour or so with a cool, moist cloth.

Care should be taken that the child has plenty of cool, not cold, water to drink. It can't speak up to say, "I'm thirsty."

IMPORTANCE OF BROWN SHOE CO. GETS PUBLICITY

Financial Publication Tells Of Output Of Dixon Shoe Factory

The importance of the Brown Shoe Company, which operates the local plant in connection with the output of footwear in the United States, is stressed in an editorial appearing in a recent issue of Barron's a financial publication. Under the heading, "Shoe Manufacturers Busy. International and Brown in St. Louis district continue large output despite seasonal lull," the article says:

"Current operations of the two major shoe manufacturers in the St. Louis district, International Shoe and Brown Shoe, are holding at a high level, despite the present period being the "in between" season. At this time, usually, the main summer demand has been met and production shows some slowing up until orders for delivery of the new fall lines have started to come in, in volume sufficient to indicate the extent of future requirements.

"However, manufacturers anticipate a good fall and winter trade, even in the event of only a normal seasonal demand, due the the low level of stocks on retailers' shelves. A similar condition exists also, in respect to the quantity of manufacturers' investments of finished merchandise, which have been below normal since the severely curtailed production schedules were affected during the latter part of 1930.

"Many units of the International and Brown Shoe are operating at capacity, particularly those producing popular-priced grades, especially lines of women's novelty footwear. Brown Shoe Company, is favorably situated in this respect, as practically the whole of its units are engaged in the manufacture of shoes which retail from $4 to $5 a pair.

95 Pct. Of Capacity

"International Shoe Company, has stepped output up to 187,000 pairs of shoes a day, the highest rate in more than a year, and only 13,000 pairs below the peak of 200,000 pairs reached during October, 1929. The Brown Shoe Company's, production is continuing at the same high level as reported by the management during the first week of June when factories were at 95 per cent of capacity. The company has a theoretical capacity of 70,000 pairs a day.

"The company will soon put on the market a new specialty line of girls' footwear which will be manufactured by the W. B. Johnson Shoe Comany, Dixon, Illinois, which has been organized as a branch of the Brown Shoe."

(Since the publication of the foregoing article, the W. B. Johnson shoes referred to have been placed on the market and a large number of orders have been received, which are now being manufactured and filled as rapidly as possible at the plant on First Street.)

Drownings Show Increase in July And During August

Chicago, July 28—(Special)— The drowning accidents throughout the United States reach their peak during July and August and on some days rival the motor vehicle as a cause of death, says the National Safety Council.

According to the most accurate information now available there were 139 drownings over the Fourth of July week-end holidays as compared with 118 auto deaths. While these figures will probably be revised on receipt of complete records, they indicate the seriousness of the drowning problem, says the council.

A Young Man's Hazard

Fatal water accidents take a toll of 8,000 lives annually, and 62 per cent of these drownings occur during the four months from May to August. Drowning is distinctly a hazard of young men. Nearly half of all drownings involve males under 25 years of age.

Hot weather, vacation trips fishing and boating excursions are obviously responsible for the rising toll in July and August. The Council suggests the following precautions as an aid to greater safety during the vacation season:

Learn to Swim!

Learn to swim at a supervised pool or beach.

Don't overestimate your ability to swim long distances.

Don't "rock the boat" or change seats in a canoe while in deep water.

Should your boat capsize far from shore, hang on to the boat and shout for help. Don't try to swim to the shore unless you are positive you can make it.

Don't go swimming alone.

Don't let children swim at unsupervised beaches.

Don't dive into water of unknown depth.

Don't go into the water too soon after a meal.

Learn prone pressure resuscitation —the most successful procedure a layman can know for saving the life of a person who has apparently drowned.

TWO TORTURERS OF AGED FARMER ARE HELD TODAY

Ex-Convicts Alleged To Have Treated An Old Man Brutally

Carrollton, Ill., July 27—(AP)—Charles Dailey and Roy Thomas, both about 40 years old, and both ex-convicts are in the Greene county jail here today charged with torturing Herman Hormon, 80, farmer of near here, who was left for dead Saturday night, after he had refused to reveal the supposed hiding place of his treasure.

Thomas, who has served a term at Southern Illinois penitentiary, was arrested here last night at home with his wife and two children. Dailey, who served a prison term three years ago for shooting Truman Hunt, was arrested four miles northwest of here at another home. State's Attorney E. J. Coyle said they would be held to await action of the grand jury.

Ears Torn Loose

At Walton hospital in White Hall, physicans found Hormon's ears had about been torn from his head and that his head, arms and back had been beaten. According to Hormon's story, first told when he staggered to the home of a neighbor 6 o'clock Sunday morning, the two men entered his lonely farm near Kaser elevator during the night and demanded that he reveal the hiding place of his money.

When he refused he was subjected to torture until he lapsed into unconsciousness. His torturers took $60, a revolver and a watch, and left him lying on the floor.

After several hours he revived and went for help, and was taken to the hospital. Late Sunday afternoon he described his torturers to Sheriff Burton, who made the arrests.

The revolver taken, Sheriff Burton said, was recovered from Thomas.

Pauline Lucy Ray Apple Oak De Kol, a veteran 11-year-old Holstein in the E. J. Baker herd of St. Charles, is credited with 22,674 pounds of milk containing 748.9 pounds of butterfat. A senior 4-year-old herd sister, Polkadot Lottie De Kol 4th, has produced 17,551 pounds of milk containing 595.8 pounds of butterfat on 4 daily milking.s

Four good records in the herd of Eugene Nagel of Highland, all on 4 daily milkings, include Miss Pietertje Ormsby Jewel, a senior 4-year-old Holstein, with a production of 16,-715 pounds of 4 per cent milk containing 674.1 pounds of butterfat; Gerben Sarcastic Queen De Kol, a mature Holstein, with 18,392 pounds of milk containing 657.9 pounds of butterfat; Sun Dell Piebe Clyde, a senior 3-year-old Holstein, with 17,-056 pounds of milk containing 592.9 pounds of butterfat; and Sun Dell Piebe Ormsby, a junior 2-year-old Holstein with 16,285 pounds of milk containing 586.1 pounds of butterfat.

A new state record for Holsteins less than 2 1-2 years old on 10-month test has been established by Airy Knoll Aaltje Fobes, owned by R. V. Rasmussen of Deerfield. At one year and 10 months of age, she began a record of 19,126 pounds of milk containing 612.9 pounds of butterfat to rank 2nd in the nation for age on 4 daily milkings during the past testing year and displacing the record, established 3 years ago in the same herd by Sedgland K. B. Hongerveld Creamelle, of 17,973 pounds of milk containing 593.3 pounds of butterfat. Pieterje Ormsby Polkadot, a herd sister in the same class and division, ranks 8th in the nation during the past testing year with a production of 16,775 pounds of milk containing 544.7 pounds of butterfat to rank 2nd in the state during the past testing year and 4th on the all-time state list for age and division.

Queen Bessie Pietertje Ormsby, famous world champion Holstein in the Rasmussen herd, proved her mettle at 8 years, 11 months of age with a production in her first 152 days on test of 12,201 pounds of milk testing 4.2 per cent and containing 509 pounds of butterfat. Although her record was discontinued after 152 days, due to the loss of one foot, she is now credited with a total production in 5 lactations of 120,577 pounds of milk testing 4 per cent and containing 4,801 pounds of butterfat or an average, in spite of her curtailed record in her 5th lactation, of 24,135 pounds of milk containing 962.2 pounds of butterfat. She heads the list of Holsteins with five Advanced Registry records and leads her nearest competitor by an average of 61 pounds of butterfat. A mature Holstein, Roycroft Beauty Sylvia in the same herd, is credited in 226 days of 15,317 pounds of milk containing 484.3 pounds of butterfat.

Rock River Farms Herd

Four good records in the Rock River Farms herd of Byron, include Daisy Findrene Johanna, a mature Holstein on 10-month test with a production of 15,159 pounds of 3.9 per cent milk containing 586.8 pounds of butterfat to rank 6th on the all-time state class and 22nd in the nation during the past testing year for age on 3 daily milkings; Rock River Peter Leola, a senior 3-year-old Holstein, with a 10-month record of 17,288 pounds of milk containing 589 pounds of butterfat to rank 3rd in the nation during the past testing year and 10th on the national list for age and division and boosting the state record for age and division of a herd sister by 19 pounds of butterfat; Rock River Echo Susie, a junior 3-year-old Holstein with 14,797 pounds of milk containing 510.8 pounds of butterfat on 3 daily milkings on 10-month test to rank 2nd on the all-time state list and 6th in the nation during the past testing year for age and division; and Rock River Peter Star Nagawicka, a junior 4-year-old Holstein on 2 daily milkings with a production in 365 days of 15,397 pounds of milk containing 477 pounds of butterfat to rank 3rd on the all-time state list and 9th in the nation during the past testing year for age and division.

Eighth rank in the nation during the past testing year and 2nd rank on the all-time state list has been awarded to Colantha Aaggie Hengerveld Segis, a senior 2-year-old Holstein in the Fitchome Farms Co. herd of Aurora, with a production on 2 daily milkings of 11,412 pounds of milk containing 417.6 pounds of butterfat in 10 months. Completing this record for a full year, Colantha ranks 11th in the nation during the past testing year and 2nd in the state class for age and division with a record of 12,213 pounds of 3 per cent milk containing 452.3 pounds of buterfat, Queen Eli Ormsby De Kol, a junior 2-year-old herd sister, ranks 7th on the all-time state class for age and division with 10,496 pounds of milk containing 353.9 pounds of butterfat on 2 daily milkings for one year.

Iowana Burke Hope, a senior 4-year-old Holstein in the H. L. Lutz herd of Aledo, ranks 6th in the state for age and division for the highest such record reported during the past 3 years. In 305 days, she has produced 13,557 pounds of milk containing 409.2 pounds of butterfat and carried her calf for 219 days of the test. Continuing this lactation for a total of 336 days, Hope is credited with 13,918 pounds of milk containing 426 pounds of butterfat on 3 daily milkings.

In the 7-day division, Warwood Ormsby Jane, a senior 3-year-old Holstein in the W. A. Rogers herd of Glen Ellyn, has produced 519.6 pounds of milk containing 19.85 pounds of butterfat in 7 days. A junior 4-year-old half sister, Warwood Sylvia Ormsby, is credited with 534.2 pounds of milk containing 17.31 pounds of butterfat on 7 days, strictly official test.

W. F. PRIEBE'S WEEKLY LETTER to POULTRY RAISERS

Two weeks ago I wrote about a friend of mine who was in New York. This week I want to tell you about a friend who was out in Kansas about that same time.

It was during that last hot spell and he was visiting different produce houses in the state. At one town (I could give you the name, but I won't because it could just as well have happened in any town,) a farmer came into the plant with 30 dozen eggs.

This man stood and watched them candle those eggs. Egg after egg had to be thrown out. When they counted up they found that there were 26 dozen and 3 rotten eggs in that case.

This particular farmer usually had good eggs and they couldn't imagine what had happened. So the manager asked him.

"Well," he said, "My wife usually looks after the eggs. But she's been sick and instead of taking them down cellar I just let the case set out on the back porch."

Blood Rings Develop Quickly

That explained it. Not one of those eggs was over, four days old but it had been so hot that they might just as well have been in an incubator.

They were fertile eggs (this farmer hadn't sold his old roosters) and the germ had started to develop.It doesn't take long for the blood ring to form on the yolk. That was what had happened to every one of those twenty-six dozen eggs and, naturally, it made them unfit for food.

It was only the eggs in the top of the case—the very last ones that he had gathered—that were all right.

If all of those eggs had been fresh, they would have brought $4.20. If they had been given the right care most of them would have gone in the top grade. The farmer could easily have had between $3.75 and $4 for them. As it was, he got 52 cents.

He had lost over $3. But I'd be willing to wager that he hasn't lost that much on a case of eggs since then because I'll bet he has been keeping them down cellar.

Don't Neglect Eggs During Harvest

Everybody is harvesting now and I know it's mighty easy to just forget about the eggs when you're so busy. But I wonder if it pays. Eggs always bring cash and we can all use money to buy groceries—and gas for the car.

So I'm just wondering if it wouldn't pay everybody—in dollars and cents—to take just as good care of the eggs during harvest as you do other times.

Maybe even butter care. I've been watching the mercury go up. Farmers lost thousands of dollars last time because of heated eggs. I just hope it won't happen again.

Remember that it doesn't cost you any more to take the proper care of your eggs. And it often means a couple of dollars on a case.

Sincerely yours,

W F Priebe

Weekly Review of Agriculture by Farmers Paper

Chicago, Ill., —(AP)— European developments are giving business sentiment another cold douse, the Prairie Farmer's weekly market review said. "Improvement in domestic business affairs hinges in considerable degree on finding a satisfactory solution of foreign financial problems," the review said.

"Cattle prices had a moderate setback in mid-July. Producers all tried to cash in on the advance caused by the light runs in the two preceding weeks, which carried fat yearlings to a top of $9 at Chicago. Conditions still point to higher prices for highly finished cattle and perhaps for the intermediate grades also in the next two months. Number of fat steers in preparation for this period probably are relatively small. Conditions point to a broadening of demand for feeders, which will leave a smaller portion of the two-way kinds to be taken by killers. Prospects for the lower grades of steers and for cows and heifers are less favorable.

"Hog prices are around the highest level of the summer. Receipts are seasonally light, so that fresh pork trade tends to dominate the market. Light pork loins have rallied to the highest point since last October. While the summer peak in hog prices may occur early this year, the decline up to October or November may be more gradual than usual, if the corn crop develops favorably. Low corn prices usually lead to lighter marketings during the fall and early winter, throwing a larger proportion of the supply on the late winter and spring market.

"A temporary gap in lamb shipments caused a runaway advance in prices. Arrivals had been decreasing for nearly a month so that the dressed trade channels had become well cleared. This letup in supplies is likely to be short lived. Prices already have dropped sharply. An erratic market swinging around the $8 level or below for top lambs at Chicago now appears probable for the next few weeks. Wool prices are firm at the advance of one to tow cents, grease basis, from the low point a few weeks ago.

"Wheat prices have shown increased stability in the last few days largely as a result of changed speculative attitude, coupled with some indications that producers will still sell freely.

With the Chicago July delivery down to 50 1-4 cents, some of the speculative interests which have been persistently talking and working for lower prices were inclined to consider the market low enough. With the low prices, reports that producers were refusing to sell began to appear, although a holding tendency is not yet evident in market receipts. European finincial conditions favor hand-to-mouth buying so imports will be small for many months to come in foreign countries.

"After declining close to new low levels for the seanson, corn prices rallied sharply in the last few days, largely as a result of speculative operation in the July delivery at Chicago. Receipts have not been quite equal to the demand, so that market stocks have decreased slightly, but they are not small enough to suggest any commercial scarcity, especially with new wheat at prices substantially below corn.

"While prices for lower qualities have been barely steady, the market for good eggs is quite firm. Receipts have contained an unsuual large proportion of low grades due to hot weather. Stocks of dressed poultry in storage have increased in the last three weeks, whereas decreases would normally be expected.

"Recent weakness in butter prices was temporary, the market in mid-July being at the best level reached since the extreme low point in late June. While prices probably will fluctuate around the present level for a few weeks longer, the worst appears to be over in the butter market."

EVERY EGG

tells its own story

WHEN an egg is turned in front of the candle, it tells a story.

A person who is used to candling eggs can read the story of how that egg has been taken care of just as plainly as if the words were written on the shell.

If he sees a large air cell at the top of the egg (like the one at the left) he knows that it was kept in too warm a place—or held too long.

If he sees a small air cell (like the one at the right)—no bigger than a dime, he knows you have taken good care of that egg and kept it FRESH.

YOU didn't leave it in a hot hen house all day. You gathered it an hour or so after it was laid.

You didn't stop in the kitchen when you came in and leave the eggs there. You took them on down cellar—where it was cool. Very likely you didn't put them right in the case. You spread them out in a shallow box and let them cool out over night.

And you didn't keep them for a week. You brought them in before they were four days old.

No wonder your eggs grade so well!

THERE are other things that help tell the story. The color and position of the yolk are important.

If it is dark or low in the egg it means that the egg has been badly "heated" or held too long.

Both heat and age cause the white of the egg to "break down" and then it cannot hold the yolk up in the middle of the egg. So it falls to the small end.

If you can see a blood ring on the yolk, it means that the chick has started to develop and the egg is not fit for food.

What story do your eggs tell? Do they say, "We've been kept FRESH"?

312 BOYS TO GET APPOINTMENTS TO STATE FAIR SCHOOL

Lee County Is Entitled To Two Boys In Coming Exposition

Springfield, Ill., July 28—(UP)—A student body totalling 321 boys is provided in the enrollment plans for the 22nd annual Illinois State Fair Boy's School, according to an announcement here today by the school commission.

Each Illinois county will be represented in the assembly of students by delegations to be selected on the basis of their 1930 population. Cook county is limited to 15 students and downstate counties will be allowed comparitive numbers.

Sixteen counties, ranging between 60,000 and 160,000 population, each entitled to five students, are: Adams, Champaign, DuPage, Kane, LaSalle, Lake, McLean, Macon, Madison, Peoria, Rock Island Sangamon, St. Clair, Vermilion, Will and Winnebago.

Nine, entitled to four students each are Franklin, Fulton, Henry Kankakee, Knox, Macoupin, Stephenson, Tazewell and Williamson.

The 76 Illinois counties not listed in either of these classes are each entitled to send two students—preferably one from a farm home and one from a town or city.

In addition, Stuart E. Pierson, director of the State Department of Agriculture, and Milton E. Jones, general manager of the State Fair, can designate 31 boys who can qualify for admission, and the nine members of the Fair Advisory Board may select nine more. This board is composed of Homer J. Tice, Greenview; Major John McQueen, Kirkland; Leslie P. Volz, Chicago; Tels P. Smith, Danville; J. E. Taggart, Freeport; Milton Hay Brown, Springfield; W. D. Alexander, Bloomington; Mrs. W. H. Stuart, Chicago; and William R. Hayes, Du-Quoin.

The rules for selecting students to represent each county authorize three local officials, the county superintendent of schools, the president of the county farmers' institute, and the chairman of the county board, to name the county's delegates.It is suggested by the school commission, that they examine applicants to determine:

First—His ability to observe carefully some object, and make a fair report of it.

Second—His ability to listen to a talk or lecture and to reproduce the main points presented.

Third—His ability to write an interesting and instructive report of what he has seen and heard.

The local officials designated have been provided with specimen questions for an examination that they may administer, if they see fit, in order to select the boys that they believe will profit most by attending this short course in farming, and who are entitled to enjoy the advantages the school offers.

Seek Control World Red Top Production

Springfield, Ill. —(AP)— Seeking to control the world production of red top and red top seed, the Egyption Seed Growers' Exchange has started work to obtain enough members from among southern Illinois farmers to bring the organization's pool up to 50 per cent of the red top production of the state.

Southern Illinois, according to the Illinois Agricultural Association, grows 90 per cent of the world's supply of red top. This production averages 9,000,000 pounds a year and brings an annual average return in excess of $1,350,000.

If the organization is successful in obtaining control of 50 per cent of the southern Illinois production, it will be in a position to dominate the market.

Illinois red top growers received 18 cents a pound for their crop last year with members of Farm Bureaus getting an additional one-half cent. This is from three to six cents above the average price paid for red top during the ten years immediately before the organization was formed. The 1930 pool is generally credited with increasing the price to all growers from three to five cents per pound.

The price paid for red top during the period from 1917 to 1931 by local buyers was 12 3-55 cents a pound, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, and the average price from 1922 to 1926 paid by all buyers was 16 cents. Since the organization was formed in 1922 the average price paid the growers has been substantially higher.

Last year 1,700 members of the exchange marketed 35 percent of the Illinois red top. There are about 7,000 farms producing red top in southern Illinois. The membership of the organization passed the 2,000 mark during the drive early this summer and is still on the increase.

The growing popularity of red top as a lawn grass and for use in golf course grass mixtures made this a profitable crop for southern Illinois and led to the organization of the Egyptian Seed Growers Exchange at Flora, Ill. The Red Top Growers' Warehouse Association is a subsidiary of the former and the warehouse receipts are used as collateral for securing loans from local banks and the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis . It is now possible for growers to get an advance of approximately 80 percent on red top pooled through the exchange.

Southern Illinois counties leading in red top production are as follows: Clay, Marion, Richland, Wayne, Jefferson, Effingham, Fayette, Jasper, Lawrence, Edwards, Hamilton, White, Washington and Clinton.

Model Stock Yards To Be Demonstrated

Springfield, Ill., July 28 —(UP)— A model stockyards in which livestock authorities will show hog raisers what all the terms in the market reports mean, will be constructed at the fair grounds for use in connection with the Illinois State Fair and the National Swine show.

The stockyards are to be built between the swine and sheep pavilions. They will consist of hog lots, pens and runways.

Run of the lot hogs will be assembled there for the sorting demonstrations at stated intervals during the fair. Porkers of various classifications will be segregated into groups and their market value explained.

Fair authorities hope that the model stock yards will teach the ordinary farmer who has a few hogs to hell, how to select the ones that are in demand upon the market when he is ready to ship.

Lack of knowledge of the hog market and the inability to select types that pay top prices, agricultural authorities assert, cause many hog producing farmers to sell their products for less money than they would obtain if their shipments were properly classified.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

A delightful and invigorating cleanup could have been gained over one of the recent July week ends by anyone with sufficient gambling spirit to have parlayed Ellsworth Vines to whip Johnny Doeg at Longwood, the British Davis Cup team to beat America at Paris and Albert Bostwick's speedy Mate to trounce the renowned Twenty Grand in the Arlington Classic.

The combination of these returns left the experts somewhat groggy though there were good and sufficient reasons for each of the upsets that startled the talent.

There is no rebuttal for the American Davis Cup team, which must now wait another year for its youths to gain additional experience and confidence for the international tennis fray. Meanwhile England's ability to reach the challenge round for the first time in a dozen years, will help overcome the inferiority complex that has beset the Isles since the days of John Cecil Parke last of Britain's champions.

Vines may force the master minds to revise the program of concentration in the development of Shields and Woods as Davis Cup aces. The lanky Californian has come along like a cyclone in the east this summer. His victory over Doeg was a sample of his improvement and is another reason why the National singles should witness a wide open scramble in September at Forest Hills.

SLOW ON THE UPTAKE—

Mate has forced a recount in the ballot for three-year-old honors of the American turf. The Bostwick colt outran Twenty Grand handsomely to make it two out of three over the pride of Mrs. Payne Whitney's stable.

Twenty Grand's outstanding weakness is the lack of what the boys call "early foot." The big bay colt, once in stride, apparently can outlast any rival over a route, but the concession of so much early ground is fatal against a thoroughbred of Mate's class.

For the time being Mate must be conceded the crown that was so promptly bestowed on Twenty Grand after the Belmont.

PUNISH 'BAD BOYS'—

One of the naturals of the outdoor fight season—a return match between Billy Petrolle and and Jimmy McLarnin—will be served to the customers only if Madison Square Garden can hurdle the existing political barriers, set up via the New York State Athletic Commission.

The Garden has had this bout wrapped up for some time but having offended the solemn solons during the course of heavyweight maneuvers, the house that Rickard built has found itself subject to retaliatory measures.

For the first time in many years the Garden's millionaire directorate has failed to produce a major metropolitan outdoor fight show, while the plums have gone across the bridge to Ebbets Field and the fair-haired boy, Jimmy Johnston.

Woodcock "Flagged" Train, Saved Babes

Chicago —That old wheeze about "fireman save my child" has just been repeated in Pennsylvania, says the Izaak Walton League in commenting on the role that a mother woodcock played in saving her chicks from a freight train. The incident which is vouched for by the Pennsylvania Game Commission, involves John Stapleton, an engineer on W. & C. Division of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad.

He was at the throttle when he saw a fluttering on the ties between the rails ahead of his engine. He stopped the freight train and found that a mother woodcock was trying to get her chicks out of the way. The crew helped catch the youngsters which were released on the outer side of the rails, and the distressed mother then took her brood into the brush.

Baseball Gossip

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Going nowhere in particular themselves, Jewel Ens' Pittsburgh Pirates apparently have decided to assume their customary late-season role—trouble makers for the rest of the National League.

Year after year the Pirates meekly submit to a general cuffing around for the first two or three months of the season, then when they're so deeply submerged in the second division a pennant is next to impossible they turn on their tormentors, particularly those clubs that top them in the standings.

Just a month ago the Pirates had won 23 games and lost 38 for an average of .377. Since then they have so far forgotten themselves as to win 19 games out of 29. They won their fifth straight victory yesterday, walloping the third place New York Giants, 8 to 6, although outhit, 14 to 10. Remy Kremer, who couldn't win a ball game when he was giving six or seven hits, was credited with the victory although he was shelacked for 13 hits in the 7 innings he worked. Glenn Spencer finished up and stopped the Giants cold with one hit.

The second place Chicago Cubs fell to a point eight and one-half games removed from the St. Louis Cardinals when they accepted a 7-6 beating from the Phillies. Home runs by Arlett and Pinkey Whitney, each with a man on the bases, furnished the Phils with a lead the Cubs couldn't overcome.

Other National League clubs had a day off.

The American League situation remained unchanged as the Philadelphia Athletics nosed out the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4, on Eric McNair's tenth inning home run. Rube Walberg chalked up his 16th victory of the year although he had little edge on George Blaeholder who struck out nine men.

The Washington Senators won a free-hitting game from Cleveland, 11-7, Joe Kuhel's two doubles and a single driving in three Senator runs.

Babe Ruth's 27th homer failed to save the New York Yankees from an 8-7 beating by the Chicago White Sox in the first game of a double header but 17 assorted singles, doubles and triples gave them the nightcap, 12-3. The Sox won the opener in the tenth when Lazzeri dropped Reynolds' fly and allowed the deciding run to tally. Ed Wells gave the Sox only seven hits in the second game.

The Boston Red Sox bunched seven hits for eight runs in the fourth inning to wallop Detroit, 13-4. Tom Bridges struck out the side in the first inning but the further the game went the less effective he became. Mark Koenig pitched the last two innings for the Tigers and blanked the Red Sox with two hits. Earl Webb's big bat again aided the Sox, his single and 40th double driving in three runs.

RUMORS DENIED

Eagle River, Wis., July 28—(AP)—If there are any high class major league pitchers for sale, Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, is ready to buy them.

Comiskey, whose club was wrecked by the 1919 world series scandal, has entertained no thoughts of a change in managers of the club, according to Harry Grabiner, Secretary of the club. His only thought has been to try to obtain material to make the club a winner.

Mr. Comiskey said he had made every purchase and trade recommended by Manager Donie Bush and "he will have to do the best he can with what he has," Grabiner said. "If there were any star pitchers for sale, the Sox would buy them, for Mr. Comiskey has no desire other than to make the club a winner. Money is no object."

The statement followed reports that Bush would be replaced by Urban "Red" Faber, spitball pitcher, who has been with the Sox for the past eighteen seasons. Grabiner said Comiskey had not considered Faber, nor anyone else, as manager of the club next year.

HORNSBY WORRIED

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—The task to which he has given much of his attention—shifting the Cub lineup—bothered Manager Rogers Hornsby again today.

Riggs Stephenson, veteran outfielder, who returned to duty the middle of last week after recovering from injuries, yesterday suffered a badly wrenched ankle, and either Hack Wilson or Dan Taylor was in line for the job today. Stephenson suffered the injury when he slid into first base in beating out an infield hit in the first inning against the Phillies.

BLAKE IS REVENGED

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—Sheriff Fred Blake has at last achieved credit for his first pitching victory of the National League season—and at the expense of his former teammates, the Cubs.

Blake last week was given to Philadelphia for the waiver price. Yesterday he started against the Cubs, an although he failed to finish the game, his new mates gave him enough of a lead during his tenure to give him the victory.

The Sheriff participated in 16 games for the Cubs and had a record of four defeats and no victories.

Bill Sullivan, White Sox—Drove in four of White Sox's eight runs in first game with Yanks.

Rabbit McNair, Athletics — Hit home run in tenth to give A's 5 to 4 decision over Browns.

Grease Balls Won From Barbers Team

A crowd of about 250 witnessed the first attempt on the part of the local barbers at baseball last evening at the Kiwanis playground, when they opposed a team composed of Dixon garage mechanics, who played under the name of the Grease Balls. The game started shortly after 6 o'clock and was called shortly after 8 o'clock when it became too dark to see the ball and the score stood 20 to 19 in favor of the Grease Balls.

"Screw-ball" Jack Wilson went the route for the Grease Balls, who were captained by Leo Miller. Wickey started for the barbers and gave way to Jim Bales in the fourth who went the rest of the route. A ditch bounding the playground on the north caused several of the long blows to become lost balls and delayed the game considerably. A feature of the contest was the umpiring of "Fuzzy" Dawson, who lasted throughout the game, going the entire route and settling many heated controversies.

Sports Parade

By HENRY McELMORE

New York, July 28—(UP)—Time changes the standards of heavyweight fighters with amazing rapidity.

Less than a month ago Young Stribling and Jack Sharkey were rated the prize flowers in the pugilistic garden and one or the other was expected eventually to win the world's championship from Max Schmeling.

Today these men have proved to be choice bloomers and seem in the process of going to seed in a hurry. In their stead we have four fighters, two of them veterans, two of them youngsters; none of whom a year ago rated more than scant attention.

The veterans are Tommy Loughran and Mickey Walker. The youngsters are Charley Retzlaff, a Duluth farmer boy and Steve Hamas a Penn State College youngster.

Loughran may never get a title shot simply because of the ability that brought him from the has-been department to the head of the class. It is highly unlikely that Schmeling will elect to defend his title against a man whose left hand, despite its lightning speed, runs a poor second to his hair-triggered mind. The German probably will choose to mix it with a fighter of his own type.

Of the three—Walker, Retzlaff and Hamas—our choice is Retzlaff. Charley makes hi ssecond metropolitan appearance tonight and should do about the same thing to Mateo Osa, his opponent of the night, as he did to Ralph Ficucello, a week or so ago. That is lay him away after a few rounds of sharpshooting.

Retzlaff looks like an Indian and acts like one on the warpath when in the ring. Standing well over six feet and weighing nearly 200 pounds he is a sight to behold when he comes out of his corner, both arms flying and his face set in a deadpan scowl.

Despite his fire when once in there between the ropes Retzlaff is lazy and nerveless when waiting in his room for a fight. We wandered into his quarters five minutes before he was to go out against Ficucello and found his Manager, Jack Hurley, having a tough time awakening him from a sound sleep.

"Get up, Charles,' Hurley said, poking his man in the ribs all the while, "it's time for you to fight."

"Alright," the farmer boy replied, "but what's all the shooting for?"

He still was rubbing his eyes as he walked down the aisle toward the ring.

SPECIALS VS WILDCATS

"Wink's Specials," a local baseball organization which is playing the popular soft ball game, is scheduled to meet the Wildcats, a team captained by Emil Magnifici, at the Kiwanis playground at 6 tonight. The Specials have played nine games, lost one, tied one and won seven, and are planning a game with the Kable Bros., Kittenball team of Mt. Morris to be played soon.

SPORT BRIEFS

Chicago, July 28 —(UP)— Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, Arlington Cup winner who has a chance to surpass Gallant Fox as the greatest money winner in the American turf, has been assigned top weight of 128 pounds for the mile and a quarter Arlington Handicap Saturday. A field of 15 appears likely to start in the Arlington Handicap which will probably gross more than $40,000. Gallant Knight was assigned 120 pounds and Mike Hall, 116.

New York, July 28 —(UP)— The largest field in the history of the event, 180 players, has entered the National Public Links golf championship at the Keller Course, St. Paul, August 4. The previous entry record list of 147 was set at St. Louis in 1929. Only 122 entered at Jacksonville, Fla., last year.

Thirty-nine cities have entered teams of four players for the Warren G. Harding intercity championship cup with Brooklyn as defending champion, individual entries from 13 additional cities have been received for the individual championship which Robert E. Wingate of Jacksonville will defend.

London, July 28 —(AP)— Frederick J. Perry, big British tennis star, will compete in the American National championships at Forest Hills N. Y., August 5 to 12.

Perry's father, S. F. Perry, a Labor member of Parliament in making the announcement, said.

"I am very proud of Fred's display and am determined he shall have every opportunity to develop his game."

Perry was one of the stars in Great Britain's fine showing in the Davis Cup matches against the United States in the interzone finals. He was beaten by Frank Shields but defeated Sidney Wood. The big Briton lost to Henry Cochet in the challenge round with France but conquered Jean Borotra.

New York, July 28 —(UP)— On 20 scattered links today 525 golfers will battle away for 150 places in the national amateur championship to be held at the Beverly Country Club, Chicago, August 31 to September 5.

Thirty six holes of medal play was today's program, the survivors to go to Chicago where another 36-hole medal play test will cut the field to 32 for the championship's match play rounds.

The Chicago district, where 128 will compete for 34 places, leads all the rest in number of entries. In New York, 65 will seek 19 places.

Virtually all this country's leading amateurs will be seeking to qualify in one district or another.

New York, July 28 —(AP)— The final Olympic tryouts for the American Women's track and field team will be held in Chicago, July 16, 1932, assuming approval by the American Olympic Committee.

Selection of Chicago for the tryouts was announced by the Woman's Olympic Track and Field Committee which revealed at the same time that the team would be limited to 18 contestants. Fred L. Steers, the chairman of the Committee, has been chosen manager of the team. He served in a similar capacity for the 1928 team.

The committee announced that Chicago possibly would be selected for the 1932 National Women's Championships and, if so, that the championships and the tryout would be identical.

Now your own eyes can SEE how well this motor oil stands up

The more body an oil has, the slower the ball drops. Note that used New Iso-Vis (Tube 3) has practically the same body as the fresh oil (Tube 4), while used "x" oil (Tube2) has thinned out decidedly.

THIS BALL AND BOTTLE TEST proves THAT NEW ISO-VIS WILL NOT THIN OUT FROM DILUTION

YOUR doctor doesn't trust his fingers to tell when you have a fever. He uses a thermometer. Why trust your fingers to judge the body of a motor oil? This Ball and Bottle Test is as scientific as a thermometer.

You can see by using it that New Iso-Vis is as heavy when it comes out of your crankcase as when it went in. And what a difference there is between the used New Iso-Vis and the thin used oil of another make. New Iso-Vis is the only motor oil that will not thin out from dilution.

Get a fill of New Iso-Vis. Drive it as hard as you will. Then at draining time make the Ball and Bottle Test at any Standard Oil Service Station or dealer. Tell them to use the oil from your car in making the test. See for yourself that New Iso-Vis stands up better than other oils.

RESULTS

of Indianapolis Speedway Tests, Certified by A. A. A.

1 Iso-Vis Motor Oil did not thin out from dilution.

2 During the entire test of 9,000 miles, the engines and chassis of all cars were lubricated effectively.

3 Oil Added: only 63/100 of a quart—average for all cars—of Iso-Vis 50 (Heavy) in 1,000 mile test at 30 miles per hour.

Watch  for the ISO-VIS TEST CARS

15 Iso-Vis test cars used at Indianapolis Speedway in intensive lubrication study conducted by A. A. A. are now on individual tours to auto dealers from Michigan to Montana. Watch for them.

MRS. MOODY NOW SEEKS SEABRIGHT INVITATION CUP

Everything Indicates Little Poker Face Will Get It, Too

By HENRY McCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Seabright, N. J., July 28—(UP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody will step gravely out on the center court here today and begin a drive for the big silver bowl that goes with victory in the women's singles division of the annual Seabright invitation lawn tennis tournament.

Certainly Mrs. Moody is not seeking the cup merely as another ornament for her San Francisco home; the place must look like a pawn shop now. It must be that Mrs. Moody is anxious to lay her hands on the Seabright bowl because it is one of the few tennis trophies that has defied the skill and power of her magic racket. The California ace has made more than one bid for the trophy and each time her quest has ended in failure.

This time the bowl would seem to be all but wrapped up and delivered to the California matron. Despite her long layoff, Mrs. Moody is playing the game of her life and Miss Jacobs, Mrs. Harper and Miss Morrill, to mention three of the stars that stand in her path to the title, are likely to be brushed rudely to one side.

Mrs. Moody was to play Miss Virginia Rice of Boston today. Miss Rice will do well to take a game.

Sharing the spotlight with Mrs. Moody today will be George Lott, Johnny Van Ryn and Sidney B. Wood, Jr., all members of the United States Davis Cup team, who will make their appearance in the doubles. The boys came straight from the boat that brought them from England, and unless they regain their land legs quickly are likely to watch the second round from the grand stand.

The men's singles, thanks to two rounds of play under yesterday's scorching sun, moved into the quarter-final bracket today. The schedule calls for Ellsworth Vines vs. Junior Cohen; Clifford Sutter vs. Keith Gledhill; Johnny Doeg vs. the winner of the second round match between Lester Steffens and Bryan Grant and Gergory Mangin vs. Jack Tidbal.

FOREIGNERS IN CHILE FIRM IN GOV'T. SUPPORT

Business Men Continue Faith In Future Of Southern Nation

Santiago, Chile, July 28 —(AP)—That popular combination—Juan Esteben Montero and Pedro Blanquier—were again in charge of the government of Chile today, and foreign business interest indicated they had complete confidence in them.

Their first task was to straighten out the confused financial situation, with its problems of local banking, foreign exchange and foreign debt.

Americans have a stake of slightly less than $1,000,000,000 in the nation and the British, with large interests, also are vitally concerned. American financiers control the principal products, nitrate and copper, on which the government depends for a large part of its revenue.

A survey indicated that foreign interests were firm believers in the future of Chile, regardless of the temporary moratorium in the foreign debt. Montero and Blanquier will continue that mocatorium, probably for the balance of this year and will deposit pesos in the Central Bank as guarantee of the payment of interest later.

Montero, Professor of Law at the University of Chile and a firm advocate of freedom for the people, took over the government from Pedro Opazo yesterday after Opazo had been Acting President only a few hours, in succession to Carlos Ibanez, who fled the country after a three-days public uprising.

Montero and Blanquier won popular acclaim by their program of economy, instituted when they were members of an Ibanez cabinet just before the overthrow of the former president. That program will again be put into effect.

ENROUTE TO BUENOS AIRES

Buenos Aires, July 28 —(AP)—Former President Carlos Ibanez, of Chile was on his way to Buenos Aires today from Mendoza, just over the border from Chile, where he stopped last night in his flight from Santiago.

When he arrived in Mendoza he was greeted by local authorities, the Chilean Consul, numerous countrymen and newspaper correspondents.

Ibanez said he resolved to leave Chile to avoid further bloodshed. He will stay in Buenos Aires several days until he decides in which city in Europe he will reside in the future, he explained.

The ex-President appeared in good health, revealed no depression and conversed affably.

DRY AGENTS ARE CENSURED BY U. S. APPEAL COURT

Operation Of Speakeasy To Entrap Officers Condemned

Chicago, July 28 —(UP)— Censuring three prohibition agents for operating a pool-room speakeasy soley for the purpose of entrapment the United States Circuit Court of Appeals has acquitted five Indianapolis policemen on charges of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act.

The decision, returned late yesterday, reversed a lower court conviction under which the officers were sentenced to from sixty days to four months on charges of protecting liquor selling. The policemen were: Martin O'Brien, Claude Ridenbaugh, Ralph Lambert, David J. Curran and Thomas Gray.

Evidence was the agents engaged Horace Lyle, colored dry informer, to operate a speakeasy and that the policemen had drinks there.

Judge Evan A. Evans wrote the federal court decision which said:

"The methods used shocked the court's sense of justice.

"That there was a conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, there can be no doubt. The conspiracy tion agents who enlisted the service was conceived by the three prohibi- of a decoy.

"We think there is a vast difference between the use of decoys for the purpose of detecting crimes and apprehending criminals,and the use of decoys to induce others to join an unlawful conspiracy originated by the government for the purpose of securing the violations of law by others.

"Such a situation is not dissimilar to the case where one arranges through a third party for a robbery to be committed upon himself with a view of receiving a reward.

"Although it be a sovereign, the government should not be permitted to adopt means which are condemned by the court when practiced by its citizens."

NEWS of the CHURCHES

DR. WEBBER HERE

Dr. E. F. Webber of the West Coast is now conducting services at the Assembly Park Auditorium under the auspices of the World Wide Christian Couriers, of which organization Paul Rader, world-famous evangelist, is president.

Those who heard Dr. Webber last night all agree that a great time is ahead before the end of the week. He preached on the "Second Coming of Christ" and gave an excellent treatise on the subject.

"Men get up and say they don't believe Christ is coming back. That doesn't make it at all untrue. Supposing a communist comes over to this country and says I don't believe in your government; does that mean we have no country? No! a thousand times No! And yet just because a few folks say they don't believe Christ is coming back, they think that he won't.

This dynamic speaker cut down verbal attacks against the scriptural statements of the rapture with his quick fire-tongue retorts. Come out tonight and hear this marvelous speaker.

Following is a list of Dr. Webber's subjects for this week:

Tuesday: Prophecy, the proof the Bible is Inspired.

Wednesday: God and Man from Creattion to eternity.

Thursday: What Must I do To Be Saved?

Friday: What Will You Do With the Life God Gave You?

Saturday: How can We Escape Hell and the Lake of Fire If We Neglect So Great Salvation?

Sunday: 3:00 P. M. The Love of God.

Sunday: 7:30 P. M. Fifty Bible that Christ Gave the Have Been Fulfilled in the Last Few Years, That Prove He Will Return Soon.

Last night as a pleasant surprise came Rev. C. L. Eicher, head of the Missionary department of the World Wide Christian Couriers, to give a splendid half hour talk, illustrated with slides, on foreign missions the world around. He will speak every afternoon this week at 2:30 except Saturday.

Coming—Dr. Wm. B. Hogg.

Heart of Liane

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LIANE BARRETT has been warned by her actress mother, CASS BARRETT, not to have anything to do with the fascinating VAN ROBARD, who professes to be in love with her. MURIEL LADD debutante, announces her engagement to Van and Liane tries to forget him. Cass is taken seriously ill on tour and Liane rushes to her side. Cass babbles in her delirium of some mystery concerning the girl's birth.

MRS. CLEESPAUGH, Liane's rich patroness, brings Cass back to her Long Island home to recuperate. Because she knows it will please her mother, Liane accepts CLIVE CLEESPAUGH'S proposal of marriage.

TRESSA LORD, house guest at the Cleespaughs, dislikes Liane and tries to break the engagement. She connives with blackmailers but they fail to succeed through the intervention of SHANE McDERMID, police officer who befriends Liane.

At a ball for the PRINCE OF SLAVARIA Liane is kidnaped. Clive, McDermid and a reporter named CHUCK DESMOND, suitor of Muriel's, start a search. At a lonely house on the shore she struggles with her captors, falls and cuts her head. The captors leave her with an old woman. Liane escapes while the woman sleeps, but drops her pearl necklace, which Clive finds stained with blood. McDermid finds the girl just before Clive rushes up. McDermid arrests the kidnapers who had planned to hold Liane for ransom and Clive takes Liane home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXX

CASS persisted, "I don't like it, I tell you. It's queer." It was a day or two after the Hunt Ball. Liane, still a little weak and spent after her great adventure, lay huddled among the pillows of her damask chaise longue.

Cass repeated the words, "I don't like it."

Liane asked languidly, "What?"

"Oh, the whole business. There's something ugly and frightening about it. It looks as if someone particularly did not want you to marry Clive. As if you had an enemy—"

Liane sighed.

"Mother, please don't worry, dear. I'm safe and it's all right and all those wretched people are safely behind bars. Fourth offense, it was, for the men and the girl's been sent to reform school or some place like that. Clive said they found cases of opium hidden away in the house."

But she shuddered a little, in spite of her brave words. She did not like to think of that fetid house in the clearing.

"When I think of what might have happened to you," Cass went on, shaking her head.

"Don't think of it. It's foolish. I'm out of their reach."

"Oh, it's not those miserable people I'm afraid of," Cass said. "They don't count. But what this man McDermid said to Clive makes me believe that you have an implacable enemy some place."

Liane shivered but she managed to laugh.

"How silly! Mums, you're playing a melodrama.

"All right, child. But I'll be relieved when you're safely married."

Why, Liane wondered, did they all use that phrase, "safely married?"

"By the way," Cass went on, "as soon as you're able Mrs. Cleespaugh wants you to look at some samples for the wedding dress. Moire, satin, velvet. Oh, they're lovely! You'll never know which one to choose."

"Lordy," Liane moaned, "I wish I might put on a dark blue suit and slip away somewhere and have it done. But I suppose that would be considered dreadful."

"I know," Cass sympathized. "But you must remember your wedding is in the nature of a state function. It's of great importance."

• • •

LIANE looked at her mother curiously. She had never known her to be so firmly set on anything as she was on this formal wedding. "But it's natural," the young girl thought. "She thinks of it as a pageant with me as the main figure. A drama with me in the leading part."

"All the same," Liane insisted aloud, "I shall hate the display and all that fuss. I wish I needn't be married quite this way."

"You owe it to your new position, darling," Cass said quietly. "That's something you mustn't forget."

She was silent a minute. Then she murmured with apparent irrelevance, "Miss Lord hasn't gone south. I wonder why."

Liane said, "Oh, she likes it here. She has such a gay time. So many beaus. I suppose she hates to leave."

Cass's eyes were on the ceiling. "Mrs. Cleespaugh is rather annoyed with her. About the way she acted the night of your—the night of the ball."

Liane laughed. "What was it? Did she refuse to worry?"

"I don't know what she said but there's a coolness between them. Mrs. Amberton admitted to me that her sister lacked tact."

There was silence for a few minutes while Liane continued to regard the landscape with languid eyes.

"Just the same," Cass burst out at length, "I hope she goes soon. She's a mischief maker. She likes Clive too well for her own good."

"They've known each other forever," Liane suggested.

"I know. That's just it. Apparently she has always thought he'd wait for her. She's been playing around all over the world and now she's tired of it and wants a soft berth. You've taken that from her. She doesn't relish the thought."

Liane sighed, "Mother, you talk as if marriage were a situation."

Cass said firmly. "That's what it is for a woman who isn't trained to do work in the world. My life was different. Tom and I worked together. We married young and we didn't have any money but we had love. That's everything."

"And you had me," Liane reminded her.

"Yes. We had you."

Something in Cass's voice made Liane glance at her. Cass stood up suddenly. "I've been yarning long enough," she said briskly. "I must go downstairs and write letters. I promised Mrs. Cleespaugh I would send out some checks for her."

Liane longed to detain her and ask the questions which had been trembling on the tip of her tongue for weeks. Cass' words spoken in delirium came back now with startling force, "Luisa wouldn't want her to know . . . she's mine . . . I've earned her."

What was the secret Cass hid? Liane longed to ask but dare not. She lay there in the half light. Nora came in and softly moved about, touching the rosy lamps until they glowed in spots of vivid color about the luxurious room.

"You'll have your tea here, Miss?"

"No, I believe I'll dress and go down. The doctor said I might."

With the maid's help Liane slipped out of her robe and into a black frock. In it she looked almost transparently fair and fragile. Her knees trembled under her.

"You're still shaky, Miss," the girl said sympathetically.

"I'm all right," Liane assured her.

SHE went down the great staircase slowly, holding to the railing. A murmur of voices came to her from the small sitting room. Her unsteady legs took her deliberately as far as the door.

"Thought I ought to tell you beforehand," Cass was saying in a troubled tone.

Liane stopped. She scarcely knew why. Mrs. Cleespaugh's reply was not entirely clear but the young girl heard the last few words, "—no surprise to me. I was aware of it from the first. I am glad, however, you told me yourself."

Liane felt herself trembling. Almost she turned back but the sound of Tressa's voice and the opening of the great front door forced her onward.

The two women looked up guiltily, she thought, at her entrance.

"Why, my dear!" Mrs. Cleespaugh began in a tone of benevolent concern. "Are you sure you ought to have done this? You look quite shaken even yet."

They made her sit down, fussed over her. Cass said, "I was just telling Mrs. Cleespaugh that I expect to go back to town as soon as the wedding is over. I have had a good offer in a Shapiro play. I didn't want to tell you until you were on your feet."

"She's hopeless!" Mrs. Cleespaugh murmured, fluttering over the tea tray. "She can't be content to sit still and rest for a bit. I told her I knew she was like that."

The two women smiled at each other but Liane was not convinced. In her heart she knew there was something else afoot.

"That isn't what mother meant," she mused. "I wonder what it is all about."

Next day Clive announced he had to go to Richmond on business.

"I wish you didn't have to go," Liane said.

"Mother's glad to get me out of the house. I never saw such a flurry. Boxes keep arriving even in the middle of the night. And caterer's men!" He shook his head.

"I tell you what! Put on your hat and come in town with me. We'll get a license at City Hall and be married today! You can go to Richmond with me and we'll avoid all the fuss." His eyes looked bright and mischievous.

Liane shook her head. "Can't. Your mother would never forgive us."

He put out his hand, touched her awkwardly. "Look here, is it me you're marrying? Or mother?"

"Silly." She shook him off. "You'll miss your train."

She stood on the steps, young and flushed and triumphant, in her riding things. Clive had been seeing that she had lessons and she was doing very well he told her proudly. Her coat and breeches of pale gray cloth fitted her charmingly. Her boots shone like old mahogany. Her casual hat was just right. She might have posed for an illustration in a magazine devoted to country life.

"Silly." She put her small gloved hand in his, for good-bye.

"Mayn't I say good-bye to you properly?"

"Out here with Kelly and all the grooms standing around? She shook her head at him, all maidenly primness. "I'll see you Tuesday."

He rode off in a cloud of dust. Liane, sighing a little, went into the house.

She had meant it when she said she hated to have him go away. Clive stood as a bulwark between her and his mother's importunate fussing, between her and Tressa Lord's barbed hatred. She didn't love Clive but she was fond of him.

• • •

WHY didn't she love him? He was young and attractive. His blue eyes could kindle with a darkening light. His young mouth had a passionate curve to it. She liked his voice. She liked his sense of humor, his kindliness. But the spark—well, it just wasn't there.

She met Mrs. Cleespaugh on the landing.

"My dear, such a stupid thing! One of Christine's girls called just now to say your fitting is today at 11 instead of tomorrow. I'm so sorry. You might have gone in with Clive but it's too late for that now. Kelly will have to take you. I've just rung the garage."

"I'll change right away," Liane answered.

When she came down 10 minutes later, she found Tressa Lord curled up in one of the hall chairs.

"What—off to town again?" Tressa asked.

"Yes, I have to go. A fitting."

"Too bad. Thought we might have some bridge."

Liane was puzzled by the other's change of front. Tressa had scarcely spoken to her for a week. Then the car drove up and she dismissed the matter, climbing in, waving her hand. Tressa went down the steps and disappeared around the rear of the car. "Probably going to the stables," Liane thought.

Kelly was a careful driver so it was with a sensation of real alarm that Liane observed shortly that the big car was bumping and careening raggedly over the ruts. The chauffeur glanced back at her before drawing to a stop.

"It's only a flat, Miss Barrett," he said disgustedly, "but Madame said I was to make time and this'll hold us up a bit."

"There's no garage anywhere in sight," Liane said, anxiously consulting her watch.

"Oh, I can change it in a jiffy," Kelly assured her.

Liane took out her vanity case and began absently to redden her lips. Absorbed in this occupation, she scarcely heard the purring of the car drawn up beside her.

A voice asked mockingly, "Is the lady stranded?"

She looked up to see Van Robard, unbelievably handsome, incredibly debonair, smiling at her.

CHARGES STATE DISCRIMINATED IN WAGE RATES

Cook Co.'s Minimum Rates Bigger Than Those Downstate

Springfield, Ill., July 28—(UP—Charge that the state showed discrimination in setting the minimum prevailing rate of wages for Illinois counties is made by the local union of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in a letter sent today to H. H. Cleveland, Director of the state Department of Public Works and Buildings.

The letter was signed by Herman Armbruster, Manager of the Brotherhood, following the announcement yesterday by the state of the prevailing rate of wage scale for public construction work throughout the state.

Declaring that the rates fixed by the Department in downstate counties are "much lower than are in vogue" the letter charges that the state has discriminated by giving Lake and Cook counties higher rates.

"This organization for one is against any such wage as set forth by the Department and we hereby register out objections," Armbruster wrote.

The state's rates fixed for Cook county were nearly three times those of downstate counties, common labor there being fixed at 97½ cents an hour; truck drivers $1; finishers, carpenters and skilled mechanics $1.62½ an hour. The downstate schedule set 35 cents an hour as the rate for common labor; 40 cents for truck drivers; and 55 cents for skille dmechanics and carpenters.

YELLOWSTONE BEAR TURNS ON WOMAN SAMARITAN

Pocatello, Ida, July 28, —(UP)—Mrs. M. F. Williams, 30, labored under the illusion that when a bear enters Yellowstone National Park, he becomes, by some mysterious process, as meek and safe as a little lamb.

Her ideas on this subject were changed very suddenly. She confidently fed a cantankerous bruin by hand the other day. Suddenly the beast grew angry and with one big swipe of its paw raked the woman's right forearm to the bone.

Mrs. Williams was taken to the Pocatello General Hospital for medical treatment.

USUAL ACREAGE VOIDS BENEFITS OF BOARD BUYS

Wheat Farmers Failed To Reduce Their 1931 Planting

By FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington — (AP) — The farm board's refusal to lock up stabilization wheat is capable of the interpretation that the farmers' failure to reduce acreage has jeopardized the government position.

It is recalled by veteran analysts that in absorbing 200,000,000 bushels of wheat the board operated on the theory that acreage adjustment would so cut production that storage stocks could be moved back into trade channels without undue loss to the stabilization corporation.

Farmers were told that in absorbing the surplus and keeping domestic markets out of the morass into which foreign markets had fallen, the board was making it possible for them to adjust production to consumption in a fairly painless process.

New Surplus Stimulated

Until May of this year, when stablization had run to the end set for it, domestic prices were as much above the world price as they ordinarily are below it.

In the meantime there was no perceptible reduction in planting outside the spring wheat belt and the new surplus of wheat acted to erase the advantageous position expected as the result of stabilization.

Now, with the country producing virtually as much wheat as ever, the farm board finds itself holding huge stocks on which storage charges are accumulating and for which the anticipated outlet failed to materialize.

Months ago it warned that stabilization could not be continued in the face of repeated overproduction. Essentially it meant that the government could not continue to buy and hold wheat that nobody wanted.

As its present policy unfolds, stabilization wheat may not necessarily be sold while the new crop is coming to market, nor is the door arbitrarily closed to a profitable sale any time one can be made without injuring prices.

Corporation Limits Sales

To those who have asked that the board set a definite period over which government wheat will not be sold in competition with farm wheat, the answer was made that until July 1, 1932, the grain stabilization corporation would limit its sales to 5,000,000 bushels a month.

The board does not say the maximum will be sold every month—it merely reserves the right to dispose of that much if circumstances are favorable.

The object is to move the wheat out and get the weight of surplus supplies off the market.

Unlike wheat that may be sold for the purpose of clearing trade channels or for other merchandising purposes, stabilization wheat will not be replaced bushel for bushel from the new crop as it is sold.

She went straight home and beat up her husband.

New York—A parakeet, banned from this country because of the danger of psittacosis, cost the Peruvian government a couple of hundred dollars when the liner Santa Clara of the Grace line was held up in quarantine.

Urges Wealthy To Adopt Needy Folks

St. Louis, July 27—(UP)—Karl Heim, general manager of a packing company here, opened a campaign today to get 8,000 wealthy men of the city pledged to adopt a family apiece for the period of the business depression.

Heim's novel plan, which he believes will bring a quick improvement in business conditions, is for each "family guardian" to pay $25 a week to the family he takes under his wing.

"Lt us say there are 8,000 families of considerable size in which the father is not working," Heim explained. "They are not buying clothing, are behind in rent and their food purchases are negligible

"A ma nwith an income of $200 or more a week can spare $25 for such a family an dnot feel it. The $25 a week would amount to $200,000 a week or nearly $900,000 a month. Ever ycent of that money would be spent right here a thome, and in the end every business man who adopted a family would get his money back and more too."

Heim said he and six other officials of his company will do the first adopting.
